THOMPSON IN FAVOR OF INSULAR BUREAU TO GOVERN ISLANDS

Opposed To Military Control In Philippines He Says

Pleasure to hear that President Coolidge believes that the time has come to put an end to military control and substitute a civil administration in the Philippines as well as in other insular possessions, was expressed by Carmi Thompson, Cleveland, former Republican gubernatorial candidate, and who is being named as the logical successor to the late Major General Leonard Wood as governor general of the Philippines, in an address before the Xenia Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, at the Elks' Club, Tuesday evening.

Col. Thompson had twice previously been scheduled to address the two Xenia clubs, but was unable to appear. A large representation of both clubs was present to hear his address. His talk followed dinner and he was introduced by F. L. "Hoke" Smith, of the Rotary Club.

Col. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal representative in the Philippines, urged the establishment of a Bureau of Insular Affairs, taking the insular possessions out of the hands of the War and Navy Departments. At his suggestion, Senator Frank B. Willis, chairman of the Committee of Territories and Insular Possessions, introduced a bill which would provide for a separate establishment as recommended in Col. Thompson's report to the President and which in turn was sent to Congress.

"The president's plan is the solution to all of our problems in the Philippines," said Col. Thompson. "His plan provides for the establishment of the Bureau of Insular Affairs as recommended by me and would take in the Philippines, Porto Rico, Guam, Samoa, The Virgin Islands, and Hawaii and Alaska. This bureau in turn would be placed under the department of the interior.

"The president is to be commended for his recommendation and it proves this statement made by me on so many occasions, that he has the interests of our overseas people at heart and that he is anxious that they have a better administration of affairs and become a happier people. Although I have been urging the passage of the Willis

RESPITE LOOMS WHEN DEFENSE MOVES TO BLOCK EXECUTIONS

Governor Summons Executive Council At Noon—Slayer Who "Confessed" Regarded As Fake—Accused Still Fast.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Lives of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti hung by a slender thread today as death stalked outside the granite walls of the state's prison at Charlestown.

With four defense appeals pending before the state supreme judicial court, Governor Alvan T. Fuller summoned his executive council to a special meeting at the state house at noon, twelve hours before the tentative time set for the march of the world-famous prisoners to the electric chair.

New legal questions were involved and a further respite for Sacco and Vanzetti loomed.

Regardless of the action in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, however, indications were that Celestino Madeiros, slayer of an aged Wren-

COMMUNISTS PLAN VIGIL AT EMBASSY TO SHOW PROTEST

London Protestors To Gather Around U. S. Building

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Communists today completed plans for an all-night vigil outside the United States embassy in Grosvenor Gardens tonight as a protest against the impending executions of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

After a huge mass meeting this evening Hyde Park the communist demonstrators will march to the embassy and take up positions as near to the building as the police will allow them.

Speeches will be made from time to time during the night, while refreshments will be served to the watchers.

Scotland Yard has made extensive arrangements to prevent any untoward incidents. A cordon of police and detectives will be placed at the end of the gardens and all traffic will be prohibited except by those having legitimate business in the gardens. The rear approach to the embassy will be constantly patrolled.

Scotland Yard officials were confident that the strong precautions were fully adequate to prevent any demonstrations near the embassy.

The whole staff of the special branch of Scotland Yard was detailed today to watch movements of well known Communists.

ARRESTED AFTER STRIKER IS SHOT

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Aug. 10.—John W. Horgan, an employee of the Maple Leaf Mine near here, was at liberty on bond today, pending action by the grand jury on a charge of pointing firearms, growing out of the shooting of John Vesco, Wainwright striker, at Newport, during the recent mine riot there. He pleaded not guilty before Justice E. N. Fair.

Harold Figley, 23, of Newport, a strike sympathizer, was fined $50 by Justice Fair on a charge of assaulting J. A. Walsner, an employee of the mine, but part of the fine was suspended.

RAIN KEEPS LEVINE FROM FLIGHT START

PARIS, Aug. 10.—The heavy rain which began yesterday was still falling today preventing Charles A. Levine, the American trans-Atlantic flyer and his French pilot, Maurice Drouhin, from hopping off on their westbound trans-ocean flight to New York. They hope to get away from Le Bourget flying field tomorrow morning if the weather clears.

CANDIDATES CHOSEN
DOVER, O., Aug. 10.—P. J. Gorth, Democrat, was renominated without opposition. Dr. A. P. Trumbey was chosen by the Republicans.

BOARD APPROVES JENKINS

Carmi Thompson Refuses To Comment Here ON HIS POSSIBLE APPOINTMENT TO ISLANDS

Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal representative in the Philippines, who is being prominently mentioned as successor to Major General Leonard Wood as governor general of the islands following Wood's death in Boston, could not be committed to a statement on the subject on his visit in Xenia to address a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs Tuesday night.

In an interview he expressed himself as a great admirer of Wood but evaded the subject of his possible appointment as Wood's successor.

Thompson was asked two questions:

Will you consider or would you accept the appointment as governor general of the Philippines to succeed Major General Leonard Wood?

If not, do you contemplate running for United States senator or for the governorship?

In answer to the first query, Thompson declared an expression from him at this time would be premature and out of place in view of Wood's recent death.

He was also noncommittal with regard to the second question and closed the subject by saying, "we will have to wait until that time comes."

Col. Thompson was accompanied to Dayton Tuesday night following the banquet by Attorney Charles L. Darlington, this city, and took the midnight train for his home in Cleveland.

BYE-BYE BILL BOARD

LEWISBURG, O., Aug. 10.—This little village has taken steps to banish the bill board from vacant lots and other places within the corporation limits. Hand bills also came under the ban and an ordinance carrying a penalty is being prepared in keeping with the will of the council. The proposed measure will be regulatory in character but the regulations, it is said, will be such as to make the bill board as extinct as the dodo here.

RACE IS CLOSE

ST. MARYS, O., Aug. 10.—Dr. G. M. Raudabaugh was nominated by the Democrats for mayor by a margin of seventy-eight votes. Maye Scheffler defeated Mary McFarland in the Democratic race for treasurer. There were no other contests. The vote was the heaviest in years.

FLAPPER "JOAN OF ARC" LEADS 5,000 MEN IN DEMONSTRATION

Police Break Up Throngs With Tear Gas And Threats—Many Injured As Mob Stampeded—Girl And 67 Others Held.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Demonstrations for Sacco and Vanzetti reached a climax here today when 5,000 frenzied sympathizers engaged in rioting after their march on the city hall and federal building was interrupted by police.

Scores of men and women were clubbed and slugged. Automobiles and street cars were wrecked by the mob. Police in bureau cars tried time and again to break up the gathering by speeding their automobiles into the seething mass of humanity.

The streets were so crowded that police cars could gain little momentum and were stopped by the rioters who literally swarmed over them. Reserve squads with sirens screaming like fire trucks, finally came to the rescue of brother officers, and with several hundred tear bombs and the threat of rifles, the crowd was brought under control.

The rioters were led by a 16-year-old girl, who inspired her followers with such cries: "Sacco and Vanzetti must not die. On comrades! Strike! Strike!"

The mob sang "The Third Internationale," Communism's battle cry, as it swung along.

The flapper "Joan of Arc" and sixty-seven of her followers were arrested and hustled off to a police station. Many of the rioters were injured in the panic and stampede that followed releasing of the eye-torturing tear gas. As far as could be learned no one was killed. Many of the police sustained cuts and bruises.

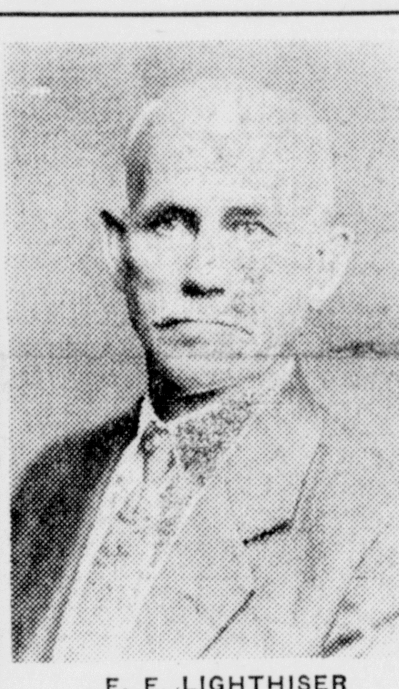

The parade started with a few hundred men and women who had gathered at Ashland Boulevard auditorium for a protest meeting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The meeting, although fiery, went off orderly enough—under the watchful eye of police reserves—and the protesters started for home. The police were thus thrown off their guard, having departed for their respective stations. As soon as the police had gone, the men and women reassembled and formed the nucleus of what soon became a threaten-

BAD WEATHER HALTS COURTNEY TAKE OFF

SOUTHAMPTON, ENG., Aug. 10.—Reports of bad weather off the coast today caused Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British air ace, to postpone his hop-off on the first leg of his trans-Atlantic flight to New York.

Courtney had made all arrangements to take off this morning for Valentia, Ireland, from which place he planned to make the first attempt at a westward flight over the Atlantic.

From 7 o'clock until 11:30 Courtney waited at the Calshot naval air depot with his flying boat "The Whale" in hope that the weather would clear, but the latest bulletin reported rain, fog and wind, so he decided shortly before noon to delay the take off until conditions were more favorable. He said he would fly at the first opportunity moment.

POWELL WINNER OF DAYTON COURT RACE

DAYTON, Aug. 10.—William G. Powell, chief justice of the Dayton municipal court, was renominated over Albert C. Fowler, Republican, while four candidates, led by Henry Hiddleston, were nominated for the city commission. One of the lightest primary votes in recent years was cast. Less than 9,000 votes were cast.

Hiddleston, Harry N. Ballman, Lorin Wright and William V. Nicum were nominated as commission candidates. Judge Powell was supported by 2,506 voters, while Fowler drew 2,506. Null M. Hodapp, Democrat, without opposition, was given 2,531 votes for the same office.

ASHLAND NOMINATES

ASHLAND, O., Aug. 10.—All present city officials were renominated, and B. F. Zercher and J. L. Devor were also nominated for mayor in the nonpartisan primary. Less than half normal vote was cast.

MAYOR NAMED AGAIN
COSHOCTON, O., Aug. 10.—Mayor Charles T. Lighthill was renominated by the Democrats, and Hugh M. Hay was named the Republican's candidate.

COLUMBUS MAN GIVEN JOB AT WILBERFORCE

Control Board Cuts Salary—Withholds Appropriation

Bearing out the prediction of State Representative R. D. Williamson, the State Board of Control confirmed the appointment of Carl Jenkins, Columbus, employed in the secretary of state's office, as business manager of the combined normal and industrial department at Wilberforce University at a meeting late Tuesday.

Jenkins will receive a salary of $3,000 per year.

The controlling board, however, postponed action on the question of approving the revised payroll of the department, which is supported by the state, pending a continued investigation into the reasons which led to the dismissal of eight employees of the department, who lost their jobs at the spring meeting of Wilberforce trustees, and who have applied to the state board for reinstatement.

Jenkins succeeds Theodore Carter as financial officer of the department but his annual salary is a decrease of $600 from that voted by trustees when Randall Hickman, Wilberforce postmaster, was originally appointed business manager to succeed Carter. In appointing Hickman, trustees raised the salary of the position $1,200, but the state board refused to approve the appointment.

Trustees later virtually admitted defeat by electing Jenkins, in the belief his appointment would end the controversy with the controlling board, and serve to obtain the board's approval of the payroll for the department for the ensuing year.

The state board, however, expects to continue withholding the $1,000,000 appropriation for the university indefinitely.

REPUBLICAN PARTY FACTION DEFEATED IN TOLEDO PRIMARY

Heavy Vote Marks Balancing As City Picks Candidates

TOLEDO, Aug. 10.—For the first time in years, the Republican organization in Toledo today had suffered a defeat in the primary election, with the Walter Brown organization falling second in the race for nomination of mayor.

William T. Jackson, ousted service director, polled 11,785 votes, a complete count this morning showed, while William B. Giteau, service director and organization candidate, obtained 10,477 votes.

Grant Northrup, vice mayor, polled 7,175, and Alvin C. Jones, independent faction candidate, 1,652.

The three high candidates will run in a non-partisan election in November.

Thomas C. Devine lead the field with a vote of 14,000 for vice mayor. He had run on the Socialist ticket in past elections. He will be opposed by Charles D. Hoover and Albert H. Emch.

The vote was the heaviest polled in a primary in years in Toledo.

KELBLE AND FISHER ALSO NOMINATED IN TUESDAY'S VOTING

Geyer Eliminated By One Vote—Only 1382 Visit Polls

Recording one of the lightest primary votes in years, Xenia nominated four candidates for City Commission from a field of eight at Tuesday's municipal primary election.

Jacob Kany, Edward E. Lighthiser, Charles A. Kelble and Harry M. Fisher were the four successful candidates to obtain nominations which qualify them to run at the November election for the two commission vacancies.

George D. Geyer, James G. Cowan, Willard R. Bennington and Dillver Belden were automatically eliminated from the commission race by Tuesday's voting.

Kany, member of the city school board for years, easily led the ticket, polling 523 votes. Lighthiser, who has been a candidate for public office several times, ran second with 404. Kelble, present commissioner, was third with 304, and Fisher fourth with 237.

Fisher, a former commissioner, obtained one more vote than Geyer who had 296. Cowan was sixth with 236, Bennington seventh with 228 and Belden last with ninety-two.

Kelble is serving an appointive term which expires December 31 and is running for his first elective term of office. The second vacancy is created by the expiration of the term of Dr. C. G. McPherson, who is not a candidate for re-election.

Kany, in heading the ticket, carried six of the fourteen precincts and tied for high vote in two other precincts.

An official count of the ballots by officials of the board of elections Tuesday night failed to materially change the result. The final count only served to reduce Kelble's total vote from 309 to 304. It was officially announced that 1,382 voters visited the polls, indicating the vote was less than 50 per cent of the normal strength of the city. A total of 2,335 votes were cast for commissioners but many citizens voted for only one candidate.

Election board officials say the primary vote was less than half that recorded in Xenia at the last general election, when 2,800 voters went to the polls.

Names of the four successful candidates will be placed on the ballots at the November election.

Complete tally of the unofficial vote was made by 6:45 o'clock, slightly more than an hour after the polls closed, because of the unusually light vote and the few number of candidates.

DOLLAR A VOTE

Xenia's municipal primary election cost the city approximately $1,300, an average of slightly less than $1 per vote, according to an estimate of R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the board of elections.

Only 1,382 votes, or less than half of the vote cast at the last general election in Xenia, were cast at the primary.

Most of the expense was for eighty-four election officials in the fourteen precincts. Each precinct had six officials, including clerks, judges and a presiding judge.

The presiding judge received $9 for his work and the clerks $5 each.

Explorers tell us that it is extremely difficult to isolate an individual specimen of the Weather Man tribe, because the cunning little creatures have been so persecuted and reviled through the ages by angry tribesmen who blamed them for the vagaries of the climate that they have become timid in the extreme. It shows the London Weather Man, called by his fellows "Mr. Fletcher," perched in his aerie on a London housetop, measuring the rainfall, with which exciting pastime he has occupied himself for 45 years without ceasing.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST WILL HOLD FELLOWSHIP DAY SERVICES HERE

Congregations of the Churches of Christ in Greene County and one from an adjoining county will unite in an annual observance of Fellowship Day at an all-day meeting in the assembly room of the Court House in Xenia Sunday.

Between 300 and 500 members of this denomination are expected to attend the meeting. Churches of Christ located in Bowersville, Jamestown, Perry, Grape Grove and Pleasant View will join in the program being arranged for the meeting. One of the churches is located in Fayette County, near the county line, but its congregation co-operates with the Greene County denomination in the yearly event.

R. C. Foster, Cincinnati, educator, lecturer and preacher of prominence, has been obtained as the principal speaker of the day, lecturing both morning and evening. The meeting will open at 9:30 a. m. and a basket dinner will be served at noon. A Bible School will convene in the morning and a communion service will be held in the afternoon.

Music is in charge of "The Harbisons", Fairmont, Ind., former residents of Greene County. J. Frank Harbison, and his wife, Opal, compose this accomplished musical combination.

The Rev. C. M. Read, pastor of the Church of Christ at Bowersville, will preside at the meeting.

Not only members of these churches but the public is invited to attend the meeting.

Yellow Springs

A double wedding ceremony took place Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seb. Gerhardt, on the Clifton Pike, where their daughter Anna became the bride of Mr. Robert Brannum, of this place, and Miss Gladys Engle and Mr. Clarence Johnson, both of Dayton, were married. Rev. E. A. Kreppert, of the Lutheran Church, performed the ceremony. After a two-course supper was served Mr. and Mrs. Brannum and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left by automobile for a trip through Indiana and Michigan.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will picnic at the home of Mrs. Tom Jacobs on the Dayton Pike, Thursday. Meet at the church at 10 o'clock where automobiles will be waiting to take you to the country.

The Theatre

Motion picture business learning is rapidly achieving the status of a profession. Shrewd, practical men who know industrial conditions regard it as one of the most profitable business investments of the century, and are preparing to take advantage of its possibilities.

Reports have it that hundreds of sons of rich men are flocking to New York from all over the world to learn motion picture and theater management.

A Tampa Fla., millionaire cigar manufacturer, De Carlos, recently made a statement that he intends to send his son, upon his graduation from Georgetown college, to New York to learn something about the theater business, and then intends to back him in a venture to establish luxurious theaters in Spain, where at the present time there is only a handful of decrepit motion picture theaters, inadequate to accommodate the amusement loving Spaniards.

Jeanne Eagels, stage actress, has been selected to play opposite John Gilbert in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production entitled "Fires of Youth." Work on the screening is beginning immediately. Miss Eagels has the part of a newspaper sob sister, while Gilbert is a reporter.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran are being teamed in "Bringing Up Father," based on McManus' comic strip.

"Dr. Mabuse," a continental picture, is having its first showing in America at the Fifth Avenue Playhouse, New York. The theme of the story deals with the career of a mad hypnotist with a mania for power.

Claire Windsor's first picture for Columbia Pictures will be "Say It With Sables," a story especially written for her by Olga Printzlau, scenarist writer.

Use Lemons to Whiten Your Skin

Better than Expensive "Bleaches"

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough. —Adv.

POLITICS AND INDUSTRY

Rancor has become so hot between California and Arizona in regard to the Boulder Canyon Dam bill that a California Congressman threatens to propose Congressional action to withdraw Arizona's right to statehood.

Seven states are interested in the Boulder Dam and the waters of the Colorado river, in addition to the federal government.

The tangle that is developing as the result of local political factions in each state seeking to gain advantages for themselves, and with another faction in Congress endeavoring to use the Boulder Dam project as a means of putting the government into business furnishes a perfect illustration of the confusion and bitterness which generally results when an attempt is made to inject government into the field of private enterprise.

As is generally the case, development lags, the investor and industries are discouraged; and in the long run the taxpayer is loaded with a heavy financial burden as the result of politics being played at public expense.

MOTORS AND MUSCLES

The New York Times discusses the matter of electricity on farms, and gives some interesting facts and figures. It is shown that there are now but three customers to the rural mile, taking the farming section of the country as a whole. The Times article says:

"Undreamed of potentialities have been revealed in experiments in different states. Feed grinders, saws, hay hoists, ensilage cutters, water pumps, fruit and nut dehydrators—these and a hundred other devices have been profitably operated by electricity with either a striking saving of labor or increase in production. Electric ranges, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, all the labor-saving devices that have simplified housekeeping in cities, have relieved farm women of much fetching and carrying. In ten years more, 3,000,000 farms will tap the electric lines."

Engineers and agricultural experts have determined that farm electrification has other aspects than those revealed by a power company's balance sheets. Substituting electricity for muscle has as much to do with decent living, contentment, self-respect and self-advancement as it has with reduced production costs. Higher standard of living have paid rich dividends in cities, and they will in the country.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON
MAJESTIC ALL THE WAY

"The ruins of himself, now worn away
With age, yet still majestic in decay."
So sang the ancient poet, Homer. The body may wear away, but not character. The old John Quincy Adams, walking down a Boston street, was asked how he felt.
"I am fine," answered Mr. Adams, "but the old house in which I live is almost worn out."

It has been said in these columns before: "Man IS a soul; he merely HAS a body."

THE LONG LOOK

To take the long look at life, one must see it as a continuous, never-ending process. It changes but goes on. We are not always here—but always somewhere. Wordsworth said:
"There is one great society alone on earth:
The noble living and the noble dead."

THEY NEED NO TRUMPET

How true it is that "great thoughts, like great deeds, needs no trumpet!"
Little use of telling our high motives and our unselfish purposes and acts. We shall rise only so high as our thoughts. If our thoughts are high, our actions will quickly show them forth. And if our thoughts are low our actions will not ring true.

THE COMMON-SENSE RULE

If you know men and women between the ages of 80 and 100 you will be interested in talking to them about their rules for health and long life. You will find there is no agreement among them. One man, living to be 100, says he has had a drink of whisky every day for 20 years, and smoked most of the time. The next man, living to be 100, lays his good health and long life to the fact that he never drank liquor or smoked. There is a woman now past 80, known to the writer, who has called herself an invalid for 40 or 50 years. She attributes her long life to the fact that her invalidism has made her take unusually good care of herself.

The best plan is to find your own common sense rule—and live by it.

HOW ABOUT THE PRICE?

So-called inspirational writers are fond of telling us that we can have anything we want if we are willing to pay the price—the price of devotion and sacrifice. It is all true—but it is a good idea to be sure that what we are after is worth the price.

SONGS of a HOUSEWIFE

By Marjorie K. Rawlings

THE TWELVE O'CLOCK WHISTLE

THE twelve o'clock whistle catches me
With morning's work half done,
Unfinished mending on my knee,
Or ironing just begun.

It seems I've only turned around,
With breakfast put away,
When all the noon-tide whistles sound,
To spoil my working-day.

The afternoon brings guests for tea,
Or shopping, parties, calls;
The day's real work quite done must be
Before the noon-hour falls.

I'm always just a little late
When twelve o'clock takes stock,
I'd like noon whistles now, first-rate,
That blew at one o'clock!

KEEPING UP WITH THE NEIGHBORS

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

At this season of the year the meal eaten in the open is enjoyed. It is a good idea to keep all the things usually carried on a picnic together so that too much time is not taken in assembling them. A list of utensils, etc., kept with the things themselves is very handy for checking over to see that all those necessary are included. This rule should be followed whether the picnic is of the simplest or the most elaborate.

Brigand Steak—Potato Chips
Buttered Rolls—Fruit Salad
Molasses Cookies—Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Brigand Steak—The steak may be cooked on a stick, first a piece of steak, then a piece of onion and then bacon, and roasted over the coals. Or it may be fastened together with skewers and cooked in the frying pan. Remember a small, low fire is best for open air cooking.

Fruit Salad—Cut one grapefruit and two oranges in sections and free from seed and membrane. Skin and seed white grapes, three-fourths of a cup. Cut pecan meats into pieces—there should be one-third cup. Mix ingredients, chill and pack in a vacuum ice cream freezer which has some ice in it. For dressing mix four tablespoons salad oil, one tablespoon grapefruit juice, one-half tablespoon vinegar, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, a little pepper, and one tablespoon finely chopped Roquefort cheese. The latter may be omitted if not liked. Pour over salad just before serving. Mix well.

Soft Molasses Cookies—One cup brown sugar, one cup shortening, one cup molasses, one egg, one tablespoon cinnamon and ginger, one-half cup hot water, one tablespoon soda dissolved in the hot water, a little salt. Flour to roll soft. Bake in moderate oven.

A la mode means in the mode or fashion of.

SUGGESTIONS

A pinch of bicarbonate of soda in the water in which green vegetables are cooked will help them keep their color.

A pinch of soda in the tomato soup before the milk is added will keep it from curdling.

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)
PEPPER HASH
One dozen green peppers, one dozen red peppers. Remove seeds, grind or chop fine and cover with boiling water. Chop one dozen onions. Drain peppers and put in kettle with onions and one pound brown sugar, one pint vinegar, salt to taste. Boil one hour, seal in jars or glasses.

DAVID ARCHER DIES MONDAY AT BELMONT

David Archer, 80, native of Greene County, died Monday afternoon at his residence, 1004 Water-viet Ave., Belmont. He resided in Greene County, where he was born, until two years ago. He was the son of John and Mary Archer. Mr. Archer served as trustee of Beaver Creek Twp., several years and was president of the Mount Zion Memorial Society at the time of his death. He was a stone mason and was sexton of several small country cemeteries.

He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Lida Helmer, with whom he made his home; two brothers, Frank, of Shiloh, and John, of Dayton.

Kellygrams

BY FRED KELLY

WHEN SMARTNESS IS A NUISANCE

At one of the leading colleges for women they made an investigation of the number of hours that students spent in study and compared these records with various students' grades.

It was found that those who regularly got the highest grades put in fewer hours in study, on the average, than many who ranked toward the bottom.

On the reflection, that wasn't surprising. It would probably be equally true in many business institutions. A few of those who get along best don't always owe their success to hard work so much as to superior qualities of mind.

But such folks are exceptional. Most of us, not being geniuses, have to make up for what we lack in quality, by working a little longer or a little harder.

Because of our vanity, though, we who are only average try to follow the schedule of the superior fellow.

Hence an exceptionally smart person in any organization is quite likely to become a nuisance. He slows down the rest of the crowd.

Every school teacher knows that the talented boy or girl who can get along without much hard work, sets the pace for the others, with the result that the majority accomplish less than they should.

Most of us might as well become reconciled to the common belief that there is much to be said in favor of hard work. It may not be pleasant truth to admit, but the only way we can outstrip a smart competitor is by sticking at the job longer than he does.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—In a building at Lexington and Forty-seventh St., there is a small lunch-casualty. The coffee served is advertised as "The best coffee in New York." No question about it, it is good coffee. Made on a queer sort of machine, every cup contains fresh coffee. A large nickel-plated tank is covered over with complicated looking gadgets. The waiter puts a spoonful of fresh coffee into one of these containers. He turns a valve and piping hot, virile coffee pours slowly out of a pipe below. I don't know just how it's done, but it is certainly far above the average belly wash which passes for coffee in most of the tonier restaurants.

The Credo of a New Yorker embodies these further items: That men about town wear spats, walking stick and have jowls.

That it is ludicrous to confess living in Brooklyn.

That all ladies in ermine coats, attending first nights, are movie stars.

That one should not drink liquor without having it analyzed.

That the neighbors neither know nor care what one does.

That Long Island is full of rum-runners.

That Riverside drive is the loveliest boulevard in the world.

That negro music is the sole native music of America.

That the words, not the music,

TAPE WORMS

R. is only twenty-four years old. His stomach is large and pot-like, and he passes narrow objects in his stool, about an inch long. He has had this condition for about five years and never gave it a passing thought! About a year ago he told a doctor about it and was given medicines and told to fast before taking them but they had no effect.

I think there's no doubt you have a tape worm, R., but you should take a sample of your stool to a physician and also have a thorough physical examination at the same time. It is surprising how long some can harbor a tape worm and pay no attention to it.

So apparent in many times they do not cause much distress. However, it certainly couldn't be comfortable to think of entertaining such a guest, and it may cause serious trouble by blocking the intestines and in other ways.

Tape worms are most frequently contracted by eating the flesh of infected beef, but there are types that come from infected hogs and fish. The fish tape worms are not so common in this country as in the old countries. It causes a type of anemia that is similar to pernicious anemia. The animals become infected by eating refuse which contains the segments containing the eggs of the worm. The eggs are hatched in their intestines into tiny worms, which migrate through the intestinal wall into the muscles and other organs. There they settle down and become encysted. When a human eats the meat of the cysts dissolve in the intestines and the adult worms develop from the tiny things which apparently are nothing but heads the size of a pinhead, with little necks. The heads have suckers, or hooklets, which attach themselves to the intestinal walls, and the segments begin to grow. It takes about three months before the full-length tape worm has formed and the segments and eggs begin to be cast off.

If the treatment given does not succeed in detaching the head, even though yards of tape worm were passed, a new tape worm can grow from the old head.

The treatment is rather drastic. The medicines are taken after a day of fasting, and one should be under the supervision of a physician. It is highly important to get the head detached, and as this, as I told you, is only the size of a pinhead, careful search has to be made for it. If it isn't passed, the treatment has to be taken again in a few days.

Hope you succeed in ousting worms, R.

For the prevention of tape worms:

1. Government inspection of meat at slaughter houses. Personal inspection of all meat in the home. Discard any that has a little foreign specks in it ("measly" beef or pork).

2. Thoroughly cook all meats (even salted and smoked) in case any infected meat should get by the inspectors.

3. Disposal of feces of those having tape worms, so that cattle and hogs cannot have access to it.

Tomorrow I'll answer another correspondent on the blessed Sunshine.

B.—Yes, direct sunlight is one of the best disinfectants there is. Tubercle bacilli (and other disease germs) are killed in a short time in direct sunlight, but they can live in dark, poorly ventilated rooms for a long while. The exact time of exposure to the sun's lights of objects which have been contaminated by the tubercle bacilli would depend upon the character of the objects infected, whether the sun could penetrate all portions, for instance. While an hour's exposure might be effective, it would be best to double or treble that time.

SIMPLICITY Chapter IV

She was a very little girl, only an inch or two over five feet tall, but she raised her red-brown eyes to me beseechingly.

"I am Elaine," she said, as though that was all that was necessary to introduce herself.

"Anne told us last night you believed that the girl with personality had it all over the girl with beauty. What would you say to the girl who has neither?"

"Every girl has personality," I answered, consolingly. "She does not always know how to find it."

"They adore it. Why, my dear girl, it is just obeying the modern slogan 'be yourself.'"

"But Harry sticks close to Anne whenever she appears among these present. And he leaves me to do it."

"Perhaps. But you must remember you have never yet tried the simple personality on Harry. You have always been trying to give him a weak imitation of Anne who could not be simple if she wanted to."

"Go home, my child, and wipe all but a tiny bit of lip-stick off your mouth. You will find Harry watching it carefully the next time you see him. Take off all that rouge."

"Anne said you did not dislike rouge," she interrupted.

"I don't on some girls; but with your rose-leek complexion, you do not need it."

"Let your hair grow long enough in the back to show its natural curl, and don't, I beg of you, shave your neck."

"What do you think is Harry's reaction when he lightly stoops to kiss the back of your neck and finds it feels like the rough, bristling of a budding mustache?"

"Honestly, Elaine, there are more young men who propose marriage because a girl's hair grows in little curly-cues about her ears, than those who can dance the black-bottom like a New Orleans mulatto."

At this Elaine seemed to take a little courage as she said, "My hair is naturally curly. What colors do you think I should wear?"

"I'd wear all shades of brown and tan. If you do you will be right in it for fashion has decreed that brown is to be the reigning color."

"If you can afford it, and live in a climate where fur is almost necessary, buy a brown pony coat with a red fur collar. Don't make the mistake of wearing yellow-brown. Always wear red-brown, to-paz or amber beads and bracelets, which you can change to jade, I hope your summer wardrobe has mostly white dresses in it."

"I can see you with a white, pleated sports skirt, a yellow jacket and hat and white shoes and stockings, running Anne, with her red, at least a good second."

"Mrs. Gibson, you believe that the right clothes make the right personality?"

"Far from it, my child, far from it. Put this down instead: Memo: Clothes help to make your personality visible. You must dress your soul instead of your body."

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

MARRIED TOO YOUNG

Young people often think their parents and guardians are very hard on them because they discourage early marriage. They point to various couples who married young and are perfectly happy. It is true that many youthful and even runaway marriages turn out well, but what the elders are thinking is, that many times burdens that are pretty heavy for young shoulders and problems that puzzle older people are foisted upon them when they take upon them family cares. They grow old before their time.

Read this pathetic letter from a girl-wife who now should be having her happiest time:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am 20 years old and have been married five years. Have had three babies. Two died when very young, but God let me keep a dear little girl who is seven months old.

"My husband's mother and father are dead. They left a little boy who was five years old and is now twelve. He has lived with his grandmother on a farm. She died a year ago, so I took him. I left my husband because the boy wasn't good. My husband said I could go but his brother would stay. He took his brother back to the farm. Then I came back to him.

"Now my husband has got his brother again. I said he would have to get a home for him as I would go. I can't pay board for him but I would help to clothe him. He wants to go back to the farm. My husband said for me to go. Now, Mrs. Lee, do you think he is right? Don't you think he is putting his brother ahead of his baby? Last night I sent him back to the farm while my husband was away.

"Did I do right? Should I go away with my baby and let him come home? I love my husband and he seems to love me. He is good to me now. Please Mrs. Lee, tell me what to do.

"UNHAPPY WIFE." Your poor kid. You need a mother yourself instead of taking care of children. But think of it: What if you died and left your baby when she was only five or eleven even and no one would give her a home. Suppose she was a bit wayward? Could you bear to think of it? I don't think that your husband thinks more of his brother, but he feels the little chap has no parents to care for him and he needs wise, loving care, and it is his responsibility. Couldn't you help him by keeping the boy and doing your best to be a big sister to him, even if he is pretty bad?

Here's a girl with a different kind of grief:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am in trouble and would like some of your advice. My boy friend and I had a quarrel. He is very nice to me. What should I do, go back to him or not? My mother does not care for him, but I do. LOU."

Well, Lou, my dear, unless your mother has very serious objections to the young man that should not be ignored I see no reason why you shouldn't take him back. No use staying mad, you know.

How to Achieve Beauty

ERASING TAN FROM YOUR FACE, NECK AND ARMS

If the symptoms of your summer beauty ills are a V of tan on the front of your neck, and a semi-circle in back—if your complexion is many shades darker than is your coming to your type—now is the time to think about a good bleaching program. There are excellent creams and liquids for bleaching, but if these seem too expensive, let me tell you a home-made bleaching cream which has been used by southern belles for generations.

It is made by soaking a few ounces of raw oatmeal in water until it forms a thick, jelly-like paste. Then stir in an equal amount of almond meal. Apply this to the face and other affected parts and allow it to remain on until it has dried. Then gently rinse the paste off with warm water and a dash of cold.

If you repeat this treatment faithfully, you will find your skin gradually whiter and gaining a lovely soft texture as well.

Buttermilk is excellent for bleaching, but is irritating to some skins. One of the best bleaches, and one made famous through its use by historical beauties is cucumber pulp. Cut up the cucumber, skin and all, and stew it in a little water until a pulp is obtained. Let this cool and apply it to the skin, retaining ten minutes. Then remove it with a soft cloth.

RESERVES BATTING AVERAGE REMAINS SAME OVER SUNDAY

Thirteen hits obtained by the Reserves in the Millard game Sunday served only to keep the team batting average for the season stationary at .343. Tangeman, first baseman, profited most by the hard hitting, raising his average to .405.

Reserves have a difficult proposition on their hands Sunday afternoon, meeting the Dayton Police in a third contest. Each team has won one game in two played this season. Batting averages follow:

FIREMEN WIN FROM BUTCHERS TO CLINCH TITLE IN CLASS B

Firemen clinched the Class B championship of the Xenia Play-ground League by turning back the Butchers 10 to 8 in a soft ball game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Tuesday night, marked by fast fielding of both teams.

The winners assumed a six run lead in the first two rounds and were never headed although the Butchers staged a five-run rally in the fifth and thereafter threatened to take the lead.

Downey and Cope divided the pitching assignment for the Class B champions with Phil Buck hurling for the Butchers.

Lineup Firemen: L. Cope, ss-p; J. Haller, 2b; Downey, p; K. Dice, c; Dickey, cf; Briley, 1b; Swartz, lf; Buffington, 3b; H. Haller, rf.

Butchers' lineup: Woolery, c; Cain, lf; Dawson, 1b; A. Smith, 3b; B. Fisher, rf; Rockfield, ss; F. Fisher, 2b; McPherson, cf; Buck, p.

Score by innings:
Firemen — 2 4 0 0 1 1 0 2 —10
Butchers — 0 0 0 1 5 0 0 1 —8

JAMESTOWN TO PLAY BELLBROOK TEAM

Jamestown's baseball team will meet Bellbrook in a Triangle League game on the Jamestown diamond Sunday afternoon, the game being called for 3 o'clock.

Jamestown occupies the last place in the league but has hope of bettering its position.

Bellbrook is a new team in the league, having replaced the Dayton Modern Woodmen of America, and at present is in third place, only one full game behind the league leaders.

FINED AFTER BEER FOUND BY OFFICER

A fine of $400 and costs was imposed on Oliver Warwick, colored, Columbus Pike, by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Tuesday afternoon on a charge of possessing liquor. Warwick pleaded guilty.

He was arrested Saturday noon by Kenneth C. Barr, county road patrolman, who raided his home. The officer, after a search, unearthed twenty-eight pints of beer, hidden in a large crock underneath the ground in the rear of the residence. The liquor cache was discovered under five feet of earth with a barrel on top of the loose dirt for purposes of further concealment.

MAY BE "HEIRS" TO THE COOLIDGES

Herbert Hoover is mentioned as successor to President Coolidge. The dynamic "business man's man" is shown broadcasting, typifying his interest in radio. His wife is shown at the left.

Forceful Determination Marks Hoover, Often Boomed as Presidential Nominee

This is one of a series of stories by Fred L. Lindelton, Washington staff correspondent of International Illustrated News, on possible Presidential personalities. Mr. Lindelton aims to give impartial personal glimpses of both parties' prospects.

By FRED L. LINDELTON, International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

THAT old war-time chestnut, "Who's Hoover?" has long since passed into the discard, for there isn't an American, even in the tiniest hamlet, that now doesn't recognize in the husky, personable, red-blooded Herbert Clark Hoover one of the outstanding figures of the decade.

Hoover is bound to cut quite a figure in the fight for the Republican nomination if he determines to run. Any time Herbert C. rolls up his sleeves and pitches his hat into the ring, you can be fully assured that you're going to get action.

Just imagine a fellow who put himself through college entirely by his own efforts and, after getting his sheepskin, had the backbone and nerve to hire out as a miner at the wages of $2 a day!

Hoover wanted to learn everything there was to know about engineering, so he started from the bottom up—no pun intended.

His rise was rapid. He amassed a fortune in Australia by applying new methods in an old gold mine. Then he went to China, apparently comfortably situated for the rest of his life—only to have every cent in the world swept away by the Boxer Rebellion.

FOUGHT CHINESE.

Hoover fought valiantly with the so-called "foreign devils" through the dramatic siege of Tientsin.

between solid stuff and lurid detective stories.

He enjoys motoring and is never happier than when he is palling around with his two sons, both now approaching manhood.

He doesn't care for society, but likes to listen to any one who has something real to say. He has a keen sense of humor and relishes nothing better than a good story.

Some of his intimates declare he hasn't any temper, but there's a difference of opinion on that point.

Others assert that he has a mighty strong one, but manages to keep it harnessed most of the time, although they intimate that once in a great while they've heard him pop over with righteous rage and decorate the atmosphere with some sizzling epithets.

FAVORED.

Hoover bears the direct endorsement of Coolidge, who has gone out of his way on several occasions to pay a tribute to his work. Hoover's energetic handling of the Mississippi Valley flood catastrophe is still fresh in the minds of the public, and possibly he'll get a raft of votes from radio fans for cutting the red tape and clearing up the ether for them.

If Hoover should be nominated and elected, the White House will have its most forcefully dominating personality since the days of Roosevelt.

ARRANGE PLANS FOR CIVIC PROGRAM IN SHAWNEE PARK HERE

Fifteen representatives of various civic organizations met at City Hall Tuesday afternoon, to organize and lay plans for an elaborate civic program in Shawnee Park the latter part of August.

City Manager S. O. Hale was appointed general chairman of the organization, and will have as his assistant, Mayor John W. Pruett. Mrs. Charles A. Kelble, Mrs. Chas. Ervin, and Dr. A. C. Messenger will head different committees.

Mrs. Ben Chambliss will act as treasurer of the organization and Mrs. William Smith, secretary.

It was planned to hold the park program as near August 25 as possible. City Manager Hale was instructed to write U. S. Senator S. D. Fess, who has been in the Black Hills with President Coolidge, to invite him to address the meeting.

The program will begin about 4:30 p. m., with a children's pageant, under the direction of Mrs. Charles W. Adair. The Municipal Band will give a concert and a "community sing" is being planned. Supper will be enjoyed by the families in the park.

Refreshments will be sold on the grounds and every city organization is asked to take part and aid in the furnishing of refreshments for the event.

You Don't Have to Pay More to Get Genuine Smoke Satisfaction. Here's the News

A good cigar at a nickel seems like a miracle these days, we'll admit. We can't complain if you don't believe that there is such a thing.

Forget the old days. Forget the price. Put just one nickel into this proposition. You're due for a cigar surprise that will upset all your ideas about the price of a good smoke. Step into the nearest cigar store and trade one nickel—no more—for a Havana Ribbon.

You'll get ripe tobacco, expertly made into a cigar that will taste sweet and mild from stem to stern. Havana Ribbon sold for more than five cents in the old days. It's worth more now. Try out a cigar that has tickled the taste of men who know smoke for thirty years. Say Havana Ribbon at your favorite cigar counter.

OUT OF PRISON

For some time the lilac bush that grew by the garden fence had been waiting for something. Its leaves had been quivering with joy. Its buds had been trying to find out what it was all about, but all that the leaves would answer when they asked them was:

Then the leaves would laugh together and the buds would strain with all their tiny might to break their bonds, but they could never quite succeed.

Suddenly the buds that grew on the topmost branch began to feel queer. They felt themselves growing bigger and bigger. Their bonds were giving way.

"Oh, sisters, what is it?" sighed one bud to another, and then they, too, trembled with joy, for slowly but surely the windows at the top of their prisons were opening.

Through each glided a tiny sunbeam, that brought warmth and a glad message to the dauntless prisoners.

"Come out, come!" cried the sunbeam. "Break your bonds and come out into the bright sunlight. You have slept in your dark prisons long enough. Now it is spring!"

Then it seemed to the little buds that they must burst with happiness. And so, burst they did! Poof! Crack! Four petals opened to the sunlight. One bud was out. Pop!

Out came another and another and another. The lilac bush was in bloom!

Off flew the sunbeams to the tulips and the cowslips and the violets and the wild cherries and the apple trees. And in no time at all flowers' faces were looking up at the sun and waiting on the breezes their fragrant thanks.

Next—"A Busy Day in Beeville."

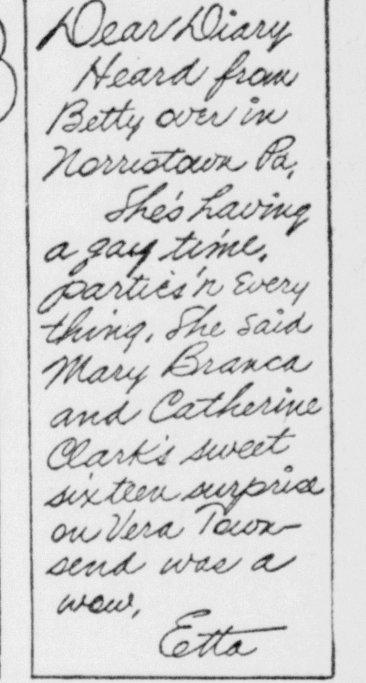

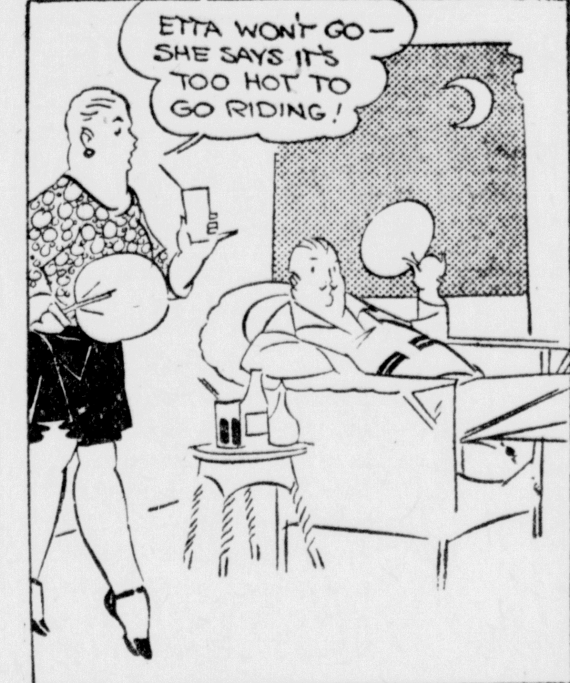

"COME OUT," CRIED THE SUNBEAM. "IT IS SPRING!"

"Wait and see. Wait and see. Soon you will be free like we are—free to scatter your sweet perfumes on the air—free to rock in the wind! And you will be sought by many for your beauty and frag-

bill, I believe that Senator Willis would be glad to have Hawaii and Alaska placed under the Bureau of Insular Affairs.

Colonel Thompson also commended President Coolidge for the straightforward manner in which he vetoed the Philippine Plebiscite bill and pointed out that this was in keeping with his own recommendation that complete independence for the Philippines be impossible at this time and for a long time to come.

This according to Thompson is the first time that any president has definitely told the Philippines that they were not yet ready for independence.

Thompson also pointed out the political and political of the Philippines. He referred to such leaders as Quezon, Osmena, Roxas, Recto, Sumulong, the leaders of the Nationalists, and the Demokrata parties in both the House and Senate and compared them with our ward leaders.

"President Coolidge is the first president to have told the Philippines that they were not yet ready for independence," said Colonel Thompson. "President Coolidge, like myself, has the sympathy of the Philippines at heart but does not believe that the time has yet come when they should be separated.

"The United States has a duty to perform towards the Philippine people which is not yet completed. They must not abandon the islands to the risk of an independent existence, without reasonable preparation to meet economic competition or aggression of stronger nations.

"Most Filipinos do not realize the responsibilities that go with independence. Their leaders never discuss this phase of the question. The Philippines lack the financial resources necessary to maintain an independent government. The islands are too poor to carry on the necessary house-keeping duties of a nation let alone being able to support an army, navy and diplomatic corps.

"The bonded indebtedness of the Philippines is held by the citizens of the United States. If the payment of these bonds were made perquisite to independence, the Philippine government would have no means to redeem them.

"A bitter religious feud between the Christian Filipinos and the Mohammedan Moros might accentuate the danger of a civil war should independence be granted at this time. Independence would spell economic disaster by the ending of the free trade relationship between the Philippine and the United States.

Colonel Thompson says that the enactment of an insular affairs bill into law would remove many of the obstacles which makes it impossible to have co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

"We must not drop the tasks which we assumed twenty-eight years ago until we have satisfied ourselves that the Philippines are prepared for complete self government. We should not take away from them their aspiration to govern themselves whenever they are able to stand alone as an independent people.

"While we are preparing the Philippines for self government, we should not reduce the internal autonomy which they have been granted, unless their own conduct should make this necessary.

"We have heard a great deal about the British monopoly of rubber during the last three or four years. The three from which rubber is obtained grows wild in many parts of the southern islands, but is only during the last twenty years that efforts have been made to cultivate it.

"When rubber is raised on a very large scale in the Philippine islands, the problem of securing an adequate supply of labor will become a matter for serious consideration. I believe however, that for some time, labor will enter the rubber territory from other parts of the islands as it is required and in sufficient quantity to produce from 75,000 to 80,000 tons of crude rubber annually. This quantity constitutes about one-fourth of the annual requirements of the United States at the present time.

"While it is apparent from the experience of the American Rubber Co. and of all other rubber districts in the east that rubber can be and should be raised in the Philippines by small planters, it probably will be necessary to encourage the development of a few larger estates in the beginning. Such estates would establish a market for small producers, aid in solving many of the technical problems which might arise in introducing rubber culture into a new era, and generally create a feeling of confidence in the future of rubber production in the islands.

"If it should be necessary to change the land laws of the Philippines to induce large interests to enter the country for the purpose of starting rubber production there, such amendments should be made by the Philippine Legislature. The body is in a position to keep within reasonable limits the amount of land held by large companies, and otherwise protect the interests of the Philippine planters who may be expected to develop small plots when the market is established.

"With the proper economic and political development, the Philippines would enjoy an era of prosperity such as has never been known in the world."

In conclusion, Thompson pointed out the great need of the introduction of capital, the extension of the Federal Reserve system, and the Federal Land bank to the islands, and predicted that with such changes, the Philippine people can raise sufficient rubber, camphor and coffee to break the monopolies in these necessary commodities which foreign nations now maintain to the disadvantage of the Americans and also the Filipinos.

"We must approach all Philippine problems with sincerity, understanding and friendship," he warned. "The Filipinos as a people are worthy of our confidence and assistance."

ALONZO EDWARDS IS COUNTY DOG WARDEN UNDER NEW OHIO LAW

Alonzo Edwards, official county dog catcher, now enjoys the title of dog warden under appointment by County Commissioners, in complying with the terms of a new dog law which went into effect in Ohio Wednesday.

The new law, replete with extensive provisions, changes the title of dog catcher to that of dog warden.

Edwards' appointment is for the remainder of the present year and the new law imposes upon him many additional duties.

Every dog must be investigated claims for damages done to property or stock by dogs and must also take a census of the canine population of the county.

The dog law also provides that even if a man owns a dog and has a license for his pet, if he should sell or give the dog away, the transaction must be accompanied by a bill of sale, costing twenty-five cents. Then the new owner is required to take out a license.

Every dog must be confined to its owner's premises between sunset and sunrise in order to prevent the animal from straying away.

Sally's Shoulders by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has not lived with her mother for many years. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for grumpy MR. PEEVEY afterwards.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires Millie as his secretary and becomes blindly infatuated with her, making her expensive gifts, etc. But Millie confesses that while she likes Nye and intends to marry him for his money and position if she can, she really prefers a salesman named DAVIDSON. She says she intends to get Davidson a job with Nye if possible.

Beau and Millie give so little towards the support of the home that Sally often borrows from her spinster aunt, EMILY JEROME. Aunt Emily is going to turn her country house into a seaside inn, and wants Sally to go into business with her. But Sally, ever in need of money, is afraid to risk it.

Beau gets $110 from Ted Sloan by means of bad checks. Sally borrows the money to pay Ted from Mr. Peevey, and Beau uses it to elope with MABEL WILMOT. A check for $200 comes from Mr. Jerome, and Mrs. Jerome gives it to Beau for a wedding present. Sally, who is paying off Beau's debts of dishonor at the rate of $1 a week, hopes that he will use the money to pay them himself. But he buys a second-hand car instead.

Millie is rushed to the hospital and operated upon for appendicitis. Mrs. Jerome visits for her husband, but gets no word from him. Sally does Millie's work in John Nye's office mornings, but will take no money for it, feeling that she is doing little enough to earn Millie's salary. One morning Davidson comes up to the office to see John Nye. Sally knows that he is coming for a job as salesman and decides to talk to him about it.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"Your Papa's coming," she cried tremulously.

CHAPTER XXXIII

"YOU'RE here looking for a job, aren't you, Mr. Davidson?" Sally asked bluntly, still holding him by the lapel of his new brown coat. "And I don't want you to do it!"

Davy Davidson stared at her, dumb with surprise. He could not make her out.

Here was a girl who was altogether new in his experience of girls who worked in offices. A girl who was not only as smart as a whip, but pretty, too! As pretty as a flower and as young as April. Only he did not put it to himself in just those words. Mr. Davidson was no poet.

Until he met Sally he had been able to put all the girls he knew into two classes—those who were clever and homely, and those who were beautiful and dumb.

But Sally fell into no class. "She has everything," Mr. Davidson said to himself slantly. "Looks and brains and pep."

He pulled himself together and asked aloud just why Sally did not want him to work for the "John Nye Real Estate Company."

It did not take Sally long to tell him why.

"It wouldn't do," she said with decision. "You and Millie have been friends for so long that you just couldn't work together. You'd be sitting around, talking to each other all day instead of working. And Millie and Mr. Nye get along so well that I hate to think of anything spoiling things here."

Davidson stared at her, his brows knotted in a frown.

"I don't get it," he told her after a minute. "But it's perfectly clear to me that you don't want me here, for some good reason of your own. So—that's out."

He laughed, showing very nice, white teeth in a good-natured grin.

"I guess I can still struggle along selling bonds," he said cheerfully. "But Millie talked this game up to me, and made me promise to come up here and talk it over with Nye."

"That sounds as if Millie has been seeing him lately," thought Sally. "While she's been pretending to be all wrapped up in John Nye." That certainly was not what Ted Sloan would have called "square shooting."

Then, once more, her promise to Millie flashed through her mind.

"You won't forget to see Millie in the hospital, will you?" she asked, holding out her little hardened hand in farewell. "Mother drops in every day at 4 o'clock. Why don't you go then?"

He seemed to be thinking it over, still holding her hand in his well-cared-for one.

"Well, perhaps I will," he was beginning, and then his face brightened and sharpened. "I'll tell you—we'll make a deal. I'll go to the hospital at 4 o'clock if you'll come at 6 and let me drive you home."

"All right. I think Mr. Peevey will let me leave early for once," replied the girl. "I'll be there at 5. They like you to go then, because it's time for the patients to have their supper- trays and get settled down for the night."

"Five then." And he was gone, triumphant and pleased with himself in his new brown full suit, swinging his hat and his cherry-wood cane.

Sally went back into the office to give it one last look to see that everything was as it should be.

The smooth sunlight surfaces of glass and brown mahogany seemed to smile up at her in a friendly way. She smoothed her hand across the top of John Nye's desk. She loved to touch it, because his lean, narrow tanned hands had lain upon it.

The door opened and he came in. Before the door had closed behind him Sally's heart was leaping, thudding against her ribs as it always did when she first saw him, at the beginning of the day.

"Good morning. How are you today?" he asked, looking straight at her and then at his desk.

Anyone but a blind man could have seen that the word Sally had put upon the straightening of that desk and all the drawers of it, was a labor of love. Love that does all things with a little touch of magic.

But John Nye was in love with Millie, and they say that love is blind. So he simply dropped down into his chair and picked up the neatly opened letters. He reached for one of the pencils that she had sharpened so beautifully and began to tap his teeth with it thoughtfully as he went over his mail.

His day began.

In the outer office at her little desk sat Sally, staring out the window at the blue sky and the slow smoke spirals that curled across it, and for once she was rebellious. Rebellious—Sally, whose watchword in life was: "I serve."

"I might be the dictagraph, for all the notice he takes of me!" she said to herself, grimly, and then, almost at once, she mentally rapped herself to order.

"Here! What am I thinking about? I didn't come here to think him time. I came to do Millie's work until she is able to come back here to this man who loves her."

She told it to herself as bluntly as that, and all morning she worked harder than as if she had been doing piece-work in a factory instead of elegantly typing letters in a luxurious office.

At five minutes after 5 she ran up the steps of the hospital.

"Your sister has a visitor," the little nurse in charge of the second floor told her when she came softly down the long, white corridor.

"I know," answered Sally. She could hear the low murmur of Davy Davidson's voice as she pushed open the swinging door of Millie's room.

The sweet smell of John Nye's roses filled the air in it. And pink as any of them, sat Millie, all wrapped up in her pink bathrobe. She had combed out her long, yellow hair and it lay like a veil of gold around her shoulders. Her eyebrows and lashes had been darkened, and her mouth painted, and she was laughing and bright-eyed. She looked more like herself than she had in a week.

"Mother's just left," she greeted Sally. "Be sure to come tomorrow." "Be sure to come tomorrow," she wanted to be alone with Davidson.

But Sally did not take the broad

GIRLS OF SCHOOL AGE KEEP IN GOOD HEALTH

They Find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Dependable Medicine

LOUISE LOUTHAN ROUTE 2, CHARLESTON, ILLINOIS

From the days of the polonaise to the days of the radio, mothers have given this dependable medicine to their daughters. School girls are often careless. They get wet feet. They overstudy or they tire themselves with too many dances and parties. They get run down.

Many an active girl of today, like the demure maiden of the 1870's, has found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is helping her to find better health and energy.

"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it did her wonderful good. She had been out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to all live mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."—Mrs. ALICE LOUTHAN, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

"My daughter was out of school two terms. I have known about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my life and finally decided that she should try it. Three bottles helped her in various ways for the next couple of years."—Mrs. W. E. GILLETTE, 986 E. 52nd Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have always been sickly, and until was fourteen my father was very strict about my perfect attendance at grammar school. I have gone to school through hard storms and often taken cold. When I was fourteen I took to my bed and did not get up for eighteen months. Everyone thought I could not live. Just four months ago I began taking your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I could notice a great change almost at once. Now I feel like a new person. I wish all girls would try Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine."—Mrs. C. M. SMITH, Union Village, Vermont.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—Lives of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti hung by a slender thread today as death stalked outside the granite walls of the state's prison at Charlestown.

With four defense appeals pending before the state supreme judicial court, Governor Alvan T. Fuller summoned his executive council to a special meeting at the state house at noon, twelve hours before the tentative time set for the march of the world-famous prisoners to the electric chair.

New legal questions were involved and a further respite for Sacco and Vanzetti loomed.

Regardless of the action in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, however, indications were that Celestino Madeiros, slayer of an aged Western bank cashier, would be executed a few minutes after midnight.

COMMUNISTS PLAN VIGIL AT EMBASSY TO SHOW PROTEST

London Protesters To Gather Around U. S.
Building

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Communists today completed plans for an all-night vigil outside the United States embassy in Grosvenor Gardens tonight as a protest against the impending executions of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

After a huge mass meeting this evening in Hyde Park the communist demonstrators will march to the embassy and take up positions as near to the building as the police will allow them.

Speeches will be made from time to time during the night, while refreshments will be served to the watchers.

Scotland Yard has made extensive arrangements to prevent any untoward incidents. A cordon of police and detectives will be placed at the end of the gardens and all traffic will be prohibited except by those having legitimate business in the gardens. The rear approach to the embassy will be constantly patrolled.

Scotland Yard officials were confident that the strong precautions were fully adequate to prevent any demonstrations near the embassy.

The whole staff of the special branch of Scotland Yard was detailed today to watch movements of well known Communists.

ARRESTED AFTER STRIKER IS SHOT

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Aug. 10.—John W. He pleaded not guilty before Justice E. N. Fair.

Harold Egle, 23, of Newport, a strike sympathizer, was fined $50 by Justice Fair on a charge of assaulting J. A. Walsner, an employee of the mine, but part of the fine was suspended.

CARMi THOMPSON REFUSES TO COMMENT HERE ON HIS POSSIBLE APPOINTMENT TO ISLANDS

Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal representative in the Philippines, who is being prominently mentioned as successor to Major General Leonard Wood as governor general of the islands following Wood's death in Boston, could not be committed to a statement on the subject on his visit in Xenia to address a joint meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs Tuesday night.

In an interview he expressed himself as a great admirer of Wood but evaded the subject of his possible appointment as Wood's successor.

Thompson was asked two questions: Will you consider or would you accept the appointment as governor general of the Philippines to succeed Major General Leonard Wood?

If not, do you contemplate running for United States senator or for the governorship? In answer to the first query, Thompson declared an expression from him at this time would be premature and out of place in view of Wood's recent death.

He was also noncommittal with regard to the second question and closed the subject by saying, "we will have to wait until that time comes."

Col. Thompson was accompanied to Dayton Tuesday night following the banquet by Attorney Charles L. Darlington, this city, and took the midnight train for his home in Cleveland.

FLAPPER "JOAN OF ARC" LEADS 5,000 MEN IN DEMONSTRATION

Police Break Up Throngs With Tear Gas And Threats—Many Injured As Mob Stampeded—Girl And 67 Others Held.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Demonstrations for Sacco and Vanzetti reached a climax here today when 5,000 frenzied sympathizers engaged in rioting after their march on the city hall and federal building was interrupted by police.

Scores of men and women were clubbed and slugged. Automobiles and street cars were wrecked by the mob. Police in bureau cars tried time and again to break up the gathering by speeding their automobiles into the seething mass of humanity.

The streets were so crowded that police cars could gain little momentum and were stopped by the rioters who literally swarmed over them. Reserve squads, with sirens screaming like fire trucks, finally came to the rescue of brother officers, and with several hundred tear bombs and the threat of fines the crowd was brought under control.

The rioters were led by a 16-year-old girl, who inspired her followers with such cries: "Sacco and Vanzetti must not die. On comrades! Mob the police! Strike! Strike! Strike!"

The mob sang "The Third Internationale." Communism's battle cry, as it swung along.

The flapper "Joan of Arc" and sixty-seven of her followers were arrested and hustled off to a police station. Many of the rioters were injured in the panic and stampede that followed releasing of the eye-torturing tear gas. As far as could be learned no one was killed. Many of the police sustained cuts and bruises.

The parade started with a few hundred men and women who had gathered at Ashland Boulevard auditorium for a protest meeting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The meeting, although fiery, went off orderly enough—under the watchful eye of police reserves—and the protesters started for home. The police were thus thrown off their guard, having departed for their respective stations. As soon as the police had gone, the men and women reassembled and formed the nucleus of what soon became a threatening horda. As they marched down Madison St. toward the City Hall, hundreds standing along the curb joined the parade.

In the lead, with her arms waving and shouting her fiery appeals, marched Aurora D'Angelo, the girl leader. She was bobbed-haired, pretty and well dressed.

Above the roaring song of the "Third Internationale" could be heard such piercing cries as "down with capitalism! down with the law! Sacco and Vanzetti must live! hurrah for anarchy!"

The greatest disorder occurred within a stone's throw of the scene of the historic haymarket riot in which two score police officers went to their deaths.

COLUMBUS MAN GIVEN JOB AT WILBERFORCE

Control Board Cuts Salary—Withholds Appropriation

Bearing out the prediction of State Representative R. D. Williamson, the State Board of Control confirmed the appointment of Carl Jenkins, Columbus, employed in the secretary of state's office, as business manager of the combined normal and industrial department at Wilberforce University at a meeting late Tuesday.

Jenkins will receive a salary of $3,000 per year.

The controlling board, however, postponed action on the question of approving the revised payroll of the department, which is supported by the state, pending a continued investigation into the reasons which led to the dismissal of eight employees of the department, who lost their jobs at the spring meeting of Wilberforce trustees, and who have applied to the state board for reinstatement.

Jenkins succeeds Theodore Carter as financial officer of the department but his annual salary is a decrease of $600 from that voted by trustees when Randall Hickman, Wilberforce postmaster, was originally appointed business manager to succeed Carter. In appointing Hickman, trustees raised the salary of the position $1,200, but the state board refused to approve the appointment.

Trustees later virtually admitted defeat by electing Jenkins. In the belief his appointment would end the controversy with the controlling board, and serve to obtain the board's approval of the payroll for the department for the ensuing year.

The state board, however, expects to continue withholding the $1,000,000 appropriation for the university indefinitely.

Republican Party Faction Defeated In Toledo Primary

Heavy Vote Marks Ballot As City Picks Candidates

TOLEDO, Aug. 10.—For the first time in years, the Republican organization in Toledo today had suffered a defeat in the primary election, with the Walter Brown organization falling second in the race for nomination of mayor.

William T. Jackson, ousted service director, polled 11,775 votes, a complete count this morning showed, while William B. Gitteau, service director and organization candidate, obtained 10,477 votes.

Grant Northrup, vice mayor, polled 7,175, and Alvin C. Jones, independent faction candidate, 1,652.

The three high candidates will run in a non-partisan election in November.

Thomas C. Devine lead the field with a vote of 14,000 for vice mayor. He had run on the Socialist ticket in past elections. He will be opposed by Charles D. Hoover and Albert H. Emch.

The vote was the heaviest polled in a primary in years in Toledo.

KELBLE AND FISHER ALSO NOMINATED IN TUESDAY'S VOTING

Geyer Eliminated By One Vote—Only 1382 Visit Polls

Recording one of the lightest primary votes in years, Xenia nominated four candidates for City Commission from a field of eight at Tuesday's municipal primary election.

Jacob Kany, Edward E. Lighthiser, Charles A. Kelble and Harry M. Fisher were the four successful candidates to obtain nominations which qualify them to run at the November election for the two commission vacancies.

George D. Geyer, James G. Cowan, Willard R. Bennington and Dillver Belden were automatically eliminated from the commission race by Tuesday's voting.

Kany, member of the city school board for years, easily led the ticket, polling 523 votes. Lighthiser, who has been a candidate for public office several times, ran second with 404. Kelble, present commissioner, was third with 304, and Fisher fourth with 297.

Fisher, a former commissioner, obtained one more vote than Geyer who had 296. Cowan was sixth with 236, Bennington seventh with 228 and Belden last with ninety-two.

Kelble is serving an appointive term which expires December 31 and is running for his first elective term of office. The second vacancy is created by the expiration of the term of Dr. C. G. McPherson, who is not a candidate for re-election.

Kany, in heading the ticket, carried six of the fourteen precincts and tied for high vote in two other precincts.

An official count of the ballots by officials of the board of elections Tuesday night failed to materially change the result. The final count only served to reduce Kelble's total vote from 309 to 304.

It was officially announced that 1,382 voters visited the polls, indicating the vote was less than 50 per cent of the normal strength of the city. A total of 2,285 votes were cast for commissioners but many citizens voted for only one candidate.

Election board officials say the primary vote was less than half that recorded in Xenia at the last general election, when 2,800 voters went to the polls.

Names of the four successful candidates will be placed on the ballots at the November election.

Complete tally of the unofficial vote was made by 6:45 o'clock, slightly more than an hour after the polls closed, because of the unusually light vote and the few number of candidates.

THOMPSON IN FAVOR OF INSULAR BUREAU TO GOVERN ISLANDS

Opposed To Military Control In Philippines He Says

Pleasure to hear that President Coolidge believes that the time has come to put an end to military control and substitute a civil administration in the Philippines as well as in other insular possessions, was expressed by Carmi Thompson, Cleveland, former Republican gubernatorial candidate, and who is being named as the logical successor to the late Major General Leonard Wood as governor general of the Philippines, in an address before Xenia Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, at the Elks' Club, Tuesday evening.

Col. Thompson had twice previously been scheduled to address the two Xenia clubs, but was unable to appear. A large representation of both clubs was present to hear his address. His talk followed dinner and he was introduced by F. L. "Hoke" Smith, of the Rotary Club.

Col. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal representative in the Philippines, in his recent report to the President, urged the establishment of a Bureau of Insular Affairs, taking the insular possessions out of the hands of the War and Navy Departments. At his suggestion, Senator Frank B. Willis, chairman of the Committee of Territories and Insular Possessions, introduced a bill which would provide for a separate establishment as recommended in Col. Thompson's report to the President and which in turn was sent to Congress.

"The President's plan is the solution to all of our problems in the Philippines," said Col. Thompson. "His plan provides for the establishment of the Bureau of Insular Affairs as recommended by me and would take in the Philippines, Porto Rico, Guam, Samoa, The Virgin Islands, and Hawaii and Alaska. This bureau in turn would be placed under the department of the interior."

"The President is to be commended for his recommendation and it proves the statement made by me on so many occasions, that he has the interests of our overseas people at heart and that he is anxious that they have a better administration of affairs and become a happier people. Although I have been urging the passage of the Willis bill, I am not disappointed."

THEIRS A "REAL HONEYMOON"

GERMAN AVIATRIX IN FIRST U. S. FLIGHT

Aims for Honolulu

PEACE AT ANGELUS TEMPLE NOW

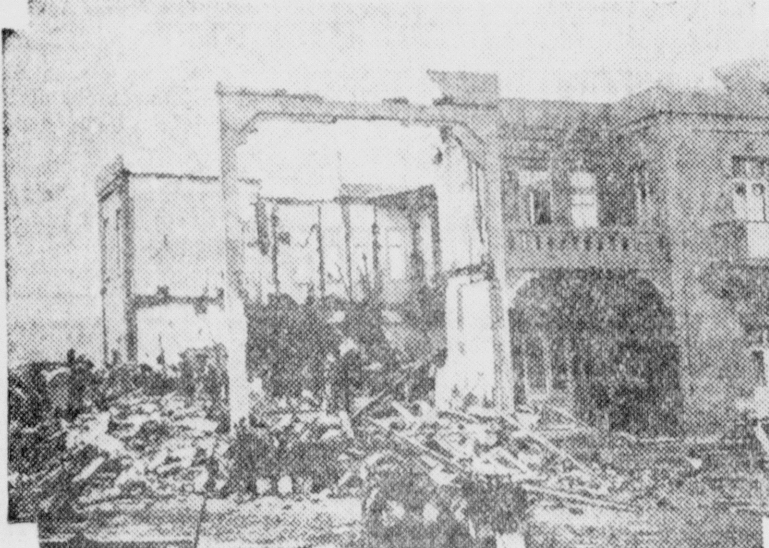

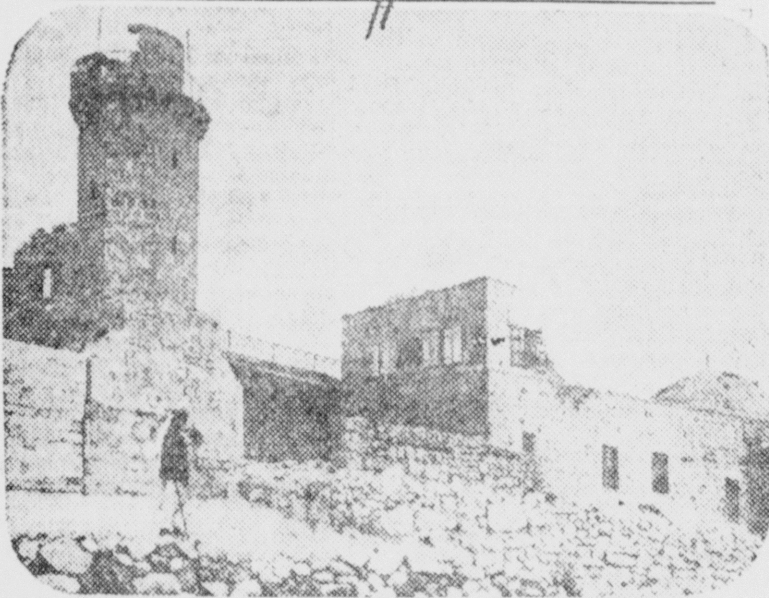

After covering 3,000 miles in Europe by auto, Mary Lewis, noted soprano, and her husband, Michael Bohnen, declare that theirs has been a "real honeymoon." They appeared together for the first time in "Faust" at Berlin, Germany. The couple is shown above enjoying their wedding trip.

OLD COMRADES REUNITED

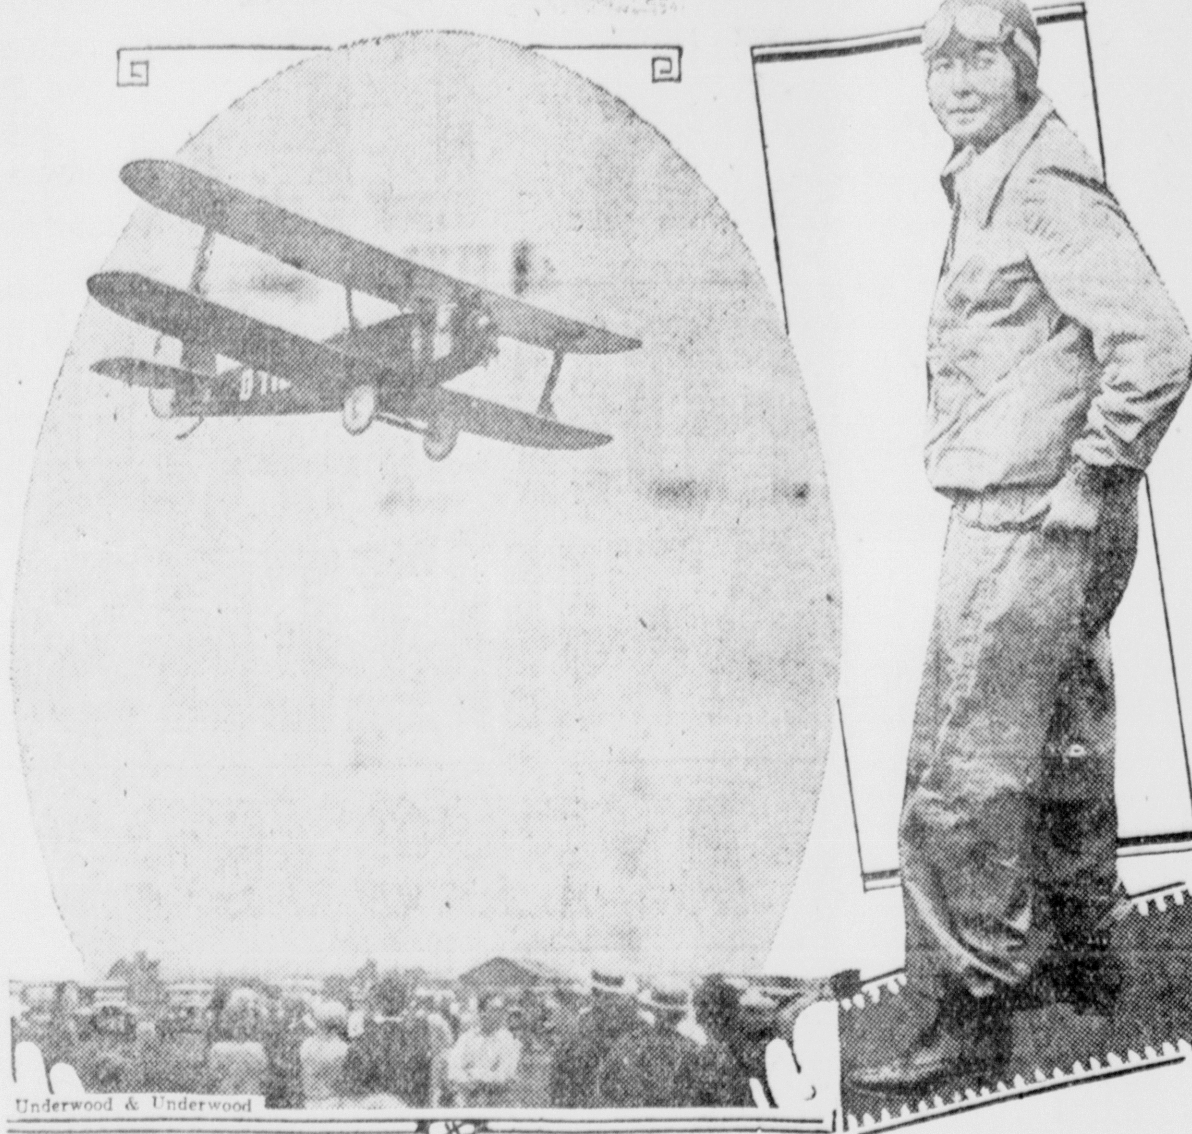

Commander Richard E. Byrd tells the story of his transatlantic adventures to Floyd Bennett, who piloted him on his flight across the North Pole, and would have been with Byrd on his trip to France had not injuries incapacitated him. Bennett is to accompany the Byrd expedition to the South Pole.

WHEN QUAKE ROCKED PALESTINE

Here are the first actual views of the damage done in many towns and villages of the Holy Land by the recent earthquake in which 400 people were killed. The top picture shows the ruins of the Chapel of the Ascension on the Mount of Olives. In the center are shown the ruins of a hotel in Jericho, where three people were crushed to death by falling walls, and at the bottom a residence on the slope of the Mount of Olives where three others were killed.

For the first time since she arrived in this country to inspect American flying methods and prepare for a hop from Berlin to New York, Fraulein Thea Rasche went up at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., the other day and showed a large crowd some daring stunt flying. The pictures show Fraulein Rasche, in flying clothes and her plane.

Follows Stable

Mrs. Virginia Vanderbilt is shown above on her way to the race track at Saratoga, N. Y., where she has several horses entered. This photo is the first of Mrs. Vanderbilt since her return from Europe, where she received her divorce from William K. Vanderbilt, in Paris.

Taught Lindbergh

Harold J. Lynch, of Butte, Montana, is the man who gave Colonel Charles Lindbergh his first flying lesson. Lynch was instructing at a Nebraska flying field when Lindbergh, an unknown youth, walked in and asked to be shown how.

POLITICAL DYNAMITE

These are the two "little black boxes" with which D. C. Stephenson, former Klan leader in Indiana, and now serving a life sentence for murder, says he will expose corrupt conditions in state politics. The boxes, now in the hands of Prosecuting Attorney Johnson, shown here with them, contain notes and memoranda of Stephenson's political dealings over a number of years.

Faces Death

Youngest person ever to go on trial for life in California is Durward Wittenmeyer, sixteen, who is alleged to have confessed slaying Mrs. Fannie Weigle, of Pomona, Cal.

HER CRITICISM EXCITES FRENCH

Alice Terry, American motion picture actress, above, in declaring in an interview that French women "all look alike," and "wear uniforms," has unwittingly started a controversy among the critics of the French press. Many object to the criticism and writers have been discussing it ever since, with various conclusions as to the charm of American and English women.

Latest of the entries in the San Francisco to Honolulu flight is Art C. Goebel, who will try for the Dole prize of $25,000 and then, if successful, attempt a return flight for the prize of $50,000 offered by San Francisco for such a feat.

Duelists?

Following a sharp exchange of acridly worded telegrams between Archduke Leopold of Austria, above, top, and Count Szechenyi, husband of the former Gladys Vanderbilt and Hungarian ambassador to the United States, above, bottom, the Archduke has challenged the count to a duel.

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, have arranged "peace terms" following a split. An announcement has been issued that "Mrs. Minnie Kennedy will give up active management at Angelus Temple and Mrs. McPherson will assume complete control." Photo above shows Mrs. Kennedy, left, and Mrs. McPherson, in a happy mood.

PORTRAIT OF A WEATHER MAN

Explorers tell us that it is extremely difficult to isolate an individual specimen of the Weather Man tribe, because the cunning little creatures have been so persecuted and reviled through the ages by angry tribesmen who blamed them for the vagaries of the climate that they have become timid in the extreme. This, therefore, is a very remarkable picture. It shows the London Weather Man, called by his fellows "Mr. Fletcher," perched in his aerie on a London housetop, measuring the rainfall, with which exciting pastime he has occupied himself for 45 years without ceasing.

The Theatre

Motion picture business learning is rapidly achieving the status of a profession. Shrewd, practical men who know industrial conditions regard it as one of the most profitable business investments of the century, and are preparing to take advantage of its possibilities.

Reports have it that hundreds of sons of rich men are flocking to New York from all over the world to learn motion picture and theater management.

A Tampa Fla., millionaire cigar manufacturer, De Carlos, recently made a statement that he intends to send his son, upon his graduation from Georgetown college, to New York to learn something about the theater business, and then intends to back him in a venture to establish luxurious theaters in Spain, where at the present time there is only a handful of decrepit motion picture theaters, inadequate to accommodate the amusement loving Spaniards.

Jeanne Eagels, stage actress, has been selected to play opposite John Gilbert in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production entitled "Fires of Youth." Work on the screening is beginning immediately. Miss Eagels has the part of a newspaper sister, while Gilbert is a reporter.

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran are being teamed in "Bringing Up Father," based on McManus' comic strip.

"Dr. Mabuse," a continental picture, is having its first showing in America at the Fifth Avenue Playhouse, New York. The theme of the story deals with the career of a mad hypnotist with a mania for power.

Claire Windsor's first picture for Columbia Pictures will be "Say It With Sables," a story especially written for her by Olga Printzlau, scenario writer.

POLITICS AND INDUSTRY

Rancor has become so hot between California and Arizona in regard to the Boulder Canyon Dam bill that a California Congressman threatens to propose Congressional action to withdraw Arizona's right to statehood.

Seven states are interested in the Boulder Dam and the waters of the Colorado river, in addition to the federal government.

The tangle that is developing as the result of local political factions in each state seeking to gain advantages for themselves, and with another faction in Congress endeavoring to use the Boulder Dam project as a means of putting the government into business furnishes a perfect illustration of the confusion and bitterness which generally results when an attempt is made to inject government into the field of private enterprise.

As is generally the case, development lags, the investor and industries are discouraged; and in the long run the taxpayer is loaded with a heavy financial burden as the result of politics being played at public expense.

MOTORS AND MUSCLES

The New York Times discusses the matter of electricity on farms, and gives some interesting facts and figures. It is shown that there are now but three customers to the rural mile, taking the farming section of the country as a whole. The Times article says:

"Undreamed of potentialities have been revealed in experiments in different states. Feed grinders, saws, hay hoists, ensilage cutters, water pumps, fruit and nut dehydrators—these and a hundred other devices have been profitably operated by electricity with either a striking saving of labor or increase in production. Electric ranges, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, all the labor-saving devices that have simplified housekeeping in cities, have relieved farm women of much fetching and carrying. In ten years more, 3,000,000 farms will tap the electric lines."

Engineers and agricultural experts have determined that farm electrification has other aspects than those revealed by a power company's balance sheets. Substituting electricity for muscle has as much to do with decent living, contentment, self-respect and self-advancement as it has with reduced production costs. Higher standard of living have paid rich dividends in cities, and they will in the country.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON
MAJESTIC ALL THE WAY

"The ruins of himself, now worn away
With age, yet still majestic in decay."
So sang the ancient poet, Homer. The body may wear away, but not character. The old John Quincy Adams, walking down a Boston street, was asked how he felt.
"I am fine," answered Mr. Adams, "but the old house in which I live is almost worn out."
It has been said in these columns before: "Man is a soul; he merely HAS a body."

THE LONG LOOK

To take the long look at life, one must see it as a continuous, never-ending process. It changes but goes on. We are not always here—but always somewhere. Wordsworth said:
"There is one great society alone on earth:
The noble living and the noble dead."

THEY NEED NO TRUMPET

How true it is that "great thoughts, like great deeds, needs no trumpet!"
Little use of telling our high motives and our unselfish purposes and acts. We shall rise only so high as our thoughts. If our thoughts are high, our actions will quickly show them forth. And if our thoughts are low our actions will not ring true.

THE COMMON-SENSE RULE

If you know men and women between the ages of 80 and 100 you will be interested in talking to them about their rules for health and long life. You will find there is no agreement among them. One man, living to be 100, says he has had a drink of whisky every day for 20 years, and smoked most of the time. The next man, living to be 100, lays his good health and long life to the fact that he never drank liquor or smoked. There is a woman now past 80, known to the writer, who has called herself an invalid for 40 or 50 years. She attributes her long life to the fact that her invalidism has made her take unusually good care of herself.

The best plan is to find your own common sense rule—and live by it.

HOW ABOUT THE PRICE?

So-called inspirational writers are fond of telling us that we can have anything we want if we are willing to pay the price—the price of devotion and sacrifice. It is all true—but it is a good idea to be sure that what we are after is worth the price.

SONGS of a
HOUSEWIFE
By Marjorie K. Rawlings

THE TWELVE O'CLOCK WHISTLE

The twelve o'clock whistle catches me
With morning's work half done,
Unfinished mending on my knee,
Or ironing just begun.

It seems I've only turned around,
With breakfast put away,
When all the noon-tide whistles sound,
To spoil my working-day.

The afternoon brings guests for tea,
Or shopping, parties, calls;
The day's real work quite done must be
Before the noon-hour falls.

I'm always just a little late
When twelve o'clock takes stock,
I'd like noon whistles now, first-rate,
That blew at one o'clock!

MENU HINT

At this season of the year the meal eaten in the open is enjoyed. It is a good idea to keep all the things usually carried on a picnic together so that too much time is not taken in assembling them. A list of utensils, etc., kept with the things themselves is very handy for checking over to see that all those necessary are included. This rule should be followed whether the picnic is of the simplest or the most elaborate.

Brigand Steak	Potato Chips
Buttered Rolls	Fruit Salad
Molasses Cookies	Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Brigand Steak—The steak may be cooked on a stick, first a piece of steak, then a piece of onion and then bacon, and roasted over the coals. Or it may be fastened together with skewers and cooked in the frying pan. Remember a small, low fire is best for open air cooking.

Fruit Salad—Cut one grapefruit and two oranges in sections and free from seed and membrane. Skin and seed white grapes, three-fourths of a cup. Cut pecan meats into pieces—there should be one-third cup. Mix ingredients, chill and pack in a vacuum ice cream freezer which has some ice in it. For dressing mix four tablespoons salad oil, one tablespoon grapefruit juice, one-half tablespoon vinegar, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, a little pepper, and one tablespoon finely chopped Roquefort cheese. The latter may be omitted if not liked. Pour over salad just before serving. Mix well.

Soft Molasses Cookies—One cup brown sugar, one cup shortening, one cup molasses, one egg, one tablespoon cinnamon and ginger, one-half cup hot water, one tablespoon soda dissolved in the hot water, a little salt. Flour to roll soft. Bake in moderate oven.

A la mode means in the mode or fashion of.

SUGGESTIONS

A pinch of bicarbonate of soda in the water in which green vegetables are cooked will help them keep their color.

A pinch of soda in the tomato soup before the milk is added will keep it from curdling.

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)
PEPPER HASH
One dozen green peppers, one dozen red peppers. Remove seeds, grind or chop fine and cover with boiling water. Chop one dozen onions. Drain peppers and put in kettle with onions and one pound brown sugar, one pint vinegar, salt to taste. Boil one hour, seal in jars or glasses.

WHEN SMARTNESS IS A NUISANCE

At one of the leading colleges for women they made an investigation of the number of hours that students spent in study and compared these records with various students' grades.

It was found that those who regularly got the highest grades put in fewer hours in study, on the average, than many who ranked toward the bottom.

On the reflection, that wasn't surprising. It would probably be equally true in many business institutions. A few of those who get along best don't always owe their success to hard work so much as to superior qualities of mind.

But such folks are exceptional. Most of us, not being geniuses, have to make up for what we lack in quality, by working a little longer or a little harder.

Because of our vanity, though, we who are only average try to follow the schedule of the superior fellow.

Hence an exceptionally smart person in any organization is quite likely to become a nuisance. He slows down the rest of the crowd.

Every school teacher knows that the talented boy or girl who can get along without much hard work sets the pace for the others, with the result that the majority accomplish less than they should.

Most of us might as well become reconciled to the common belief that there is much to be said in favor of hard work. It may not be pleasant to admit, but the only way we can outstrip a smart competitor is by sticking at the job longer than he does.

of popular songs, are written first.

The bulk of the articles displayed in the windows of downtown pawnshops consists of revolvers and automatic pistols. To whom are they sold? Under the Sullivan law it is a criminal offense to possess such a weapon without a license; and it means life imprisonment for a man who has ever been convicted of one offense to be found with a pistol in his possession.

After having had my apartment burglarized four times in two weeks, I applied for a permit to have a pistol in my house. I was fingerprinted, weighed, examined and pestered for weeks by inspectors who came to me, my boss, my neighbor, my janitor, my postman, my druggist, my grocer, my butcher, my banker, and my insurance company asking questions about me. Finally after learning more than I ever wanted known about me, I received a notice that I had qualified for right to possess a gun and if I would come down and sign my name to about forty affidavits I would be given a certificate entitling me to buy a pistol. I bought a bull pup instead; and then the landlord gave me notice I would have to vacate on account of the dog. I told him I hadn't anything left except the dog after the four visits of the burglar and I would gladly go and good night.

But the pawnshops must sell their firearms to some one.

FRENCH DEBT TERMS CALLED GENEROUS

By DUNCAN U. FLETCHER
U. S. Senator from Florida

Duncan Upshaw Fletcher was born in Sumter County, Georgia, January 6, 1859. He was admitted to the bar in 1881, and has since practiced at Jacksonville, Fla. Fletcher served as a member of the Florida house of representatives in 1893 and as mayor of Jacksonville from 1893 to 1895. He took his seat in the United States Senate in 1909 under appointment from the governor, and was elected by state legislature for the office for the term of 1909 to 1915. He was re-elected to the senate in 1915 and again in 1927.

We have been exceedingly liberal to France, and I shall stand on what we have proposed in the agreement signed by representatives of the two governments.

terms constitute a very generous proposition to France and I do not purpose as one member of the senate, to yield a particle on these terms. I would not think that any other understanding will be reached between the two countries. I do not see any right or injustice in contributing any more generous terms to France.

Aside from the terms of the Mellon-Beranger agreement, we must recall that when the United States government came out of France after the conclusion of the World War we left there more than $2,000,000,000 in American property, in the form of warships, ports, warehouses and so on, which France obtained for virtually a song. France got all the benefit of all that property for very little.

We have been extremely liberal to France.

CHICKEN FARM AHOY!

CAPE MAY, N. J.—Jere-miah Pratt, 74-year-old seaman, did not care a bit if the 23-pound lump of ambergris which he found fifteen miles off shore, did not smell fragrant. He could stand almost anything as long as he could buy a chicken farm and retire. He'd even take the smelling mass himself to the perfumers, and be turned into delicate scents, and for which they were to pay $445 a pound, or a total of $12,500.

TAPE WORMS

R. is only twenty-four years old. His stomach is large and pot-bellied, and passes narrow objects in his stool, about an inch long. He has had this condition for about five years and never gave it a passing thought! About a year ago he told a doctor about it and was given medicines and told to fast before taking them but they had no effect.

I think there's no doubt you have a tape worm, R., but you should take a sample of your stool to a physician and also have a thorough physical examination at the same time. It is surprising how long some can harbor a tape worm and pay no attention to it, so apparently many times they do not cause much distress. However, it certainly couldn't be comfortable to think of entertaining such a guest, and it may cause serious trouble by blocking the intestines and in other ways.

Tape worms are most frequently contracted by eating the flesh of infected beef, but there are types that come from infected hogs and fish. The fish tape worms are not so common in this country as in the old countries. It causes a type of anemia that is similar to pernicious anemia. The animals become infected by eating refuse which contains the segments containing the eggs of the worm. The eggs are hatched in the intestines into tiny worms, which migrate through the intestinal wall into the muscles and other organs. There they settle down and become encysted. When a human eats the meat of these infected animals, the walls of the cysts dissolve in the intestines and the adult worms develop from the tiny things which apparently are nothing but heads of the size of a pinhead, with little necks. The heads have suckers, or hooklets, which attach themselves to the intestinal walls, and the segments begin to grow. It takes about three months before the full-length tape worm has formed and the segments and eggs begin to be cast off.

If the treatment given does not succeed in detaching the head, even though yards of tape worm were passed, a new tape worm can grow from the old head.

The treatment is rather drastic. The medicines are taken after a day of fasting, and one should be under the supervision of a physician. It is highly important to get the head passed, and as this, as I told you, is only the size of a pinhead, careful search has to be made for it. If it isn't passed, the treatment has to be taken again in a few days.

Hope you succeed in ousting yours, R.

For the prevention of tape worms:

1. Government inspection of meat at slaughter houses. Personal inspection of all meat in the home. Discard any that has any taint, foreign specks in it ("measly" beef or pork).

2. Thoroughly cook all meats (even salted and smoked) in case any infected meat should get by the inspectors.

3. Disposal of feces of those having tape worms, so that cattle and hogs cannot have access to it. Tomorrow I'll answer another correspondent on worms.

Be Blessed Sunshine in B.—Yes, direct sunlight is one of the best disinfectants there is. Tubercle bacilli (and other disease germs) are killed in a short time in direct sunlight, but they can live in dark, poorly ventilated rooms for a long while. The exact time of exposure to the sun- lights of objects which have been contaminated by the tubercle bacilli would depend upon the character of the objects infected, all portions, for instance. While an hour's exposure might be effective, it would be best to double or treble that time.

I Have Said in My Heart

AS TOLD BY ELAINE TO IDAH M'GLONE GIBSON

SIMPLICITY
Chapter IV

She was a very little girl, only an inch or two over five feet tall, but she raised her red-brown eyes to me beseechingly.

"I am Elaine," she said, as though that was all that was necessary to introduce herself.

"Anne told us last night you believed that the girl with personality had it all over the girl with beauty. W h t would you say to the girl who has neither?"

"Every girl has personality," I answered, consolingly. "She does not always know how to find it."

"With a sliver of satisfaction, the little girl before me seated herself in my big Ann chair, from which her feet pushed out straight before her. Her legs were too short to touch the floor. I looked her over. Her soft brown hair was cut like a boy's, very short in the back and the barber had used the clippers 'barbarously,' as they usually do. Her cheeks were vividly rosy.

Her mouth looked like a cut gash which was still bleeding, and, to complete the portrait, she had on the twin of the red and white sports costume that Annabelle Lee was wearing when she made her call.

"What is wrong with this picture?" you are asking me, said, "I will have to tell you that it's all wrong."

"Your personality just groans to have to be disguised in this fashion."

"Elaine, I expect, my dear, that you are too young to have read 'Elaine the Little Maid of Astolat?' Levinson is not read by this generation, but if by any possibility you have read the story, you will remember she was very beautiful."

"In the first place, go home and take off that red ensemble."

"But—but red is so fashionable," she stammered.

"Perhaps but not for you. You must affect simplicity."

"Dear Mrs. Gibson, I don't want to be a syl."

"Effecting simplicity and being a syl are two different things, my dear. The most sophisticated people on earth are the simplest in personality and temperament."

"Do you really think young men like simplicity in women?" she asked.

"I can see you with a white, pleated sports skirt, a yellow jacket and hat and white shoes and stockings, running Anne, with her red, at least a good second."

"Mrs. Gibson, you believe that the right clothes make the right personality?"

"I can't see it, my child, far from it. Put this down instead: Memo: Clothes help to make your personality visible. You must dress your soul instead of your body."

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

MARRIED TOO YOUNG

Young people often think their parents and guardians are very hard on them because they discourage early marriage. They point to various couples who married young and are perfectly happy. It is true that many youthful and even runaway marriages turn out well, but what the elders are thinking is, that many times burdens that are pretty heavy for young shoulders and problems that puzzle older people are foisted upon them when they take upon them family cares. They grow old before their time.

Read this pathetic letter from a girl-wife who now should be having her happiest time:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am 20 years old and have been married five years. Have had three babies. Two died when very young, but God let me keep a dear little girl who is seven months old.

"My husband's mother and father are dead. They left a little boy who was five years old and is now twelve. He has lived with his grandmother on a farm. She died a year ago, so I took him. I left my husband because the boy wasn't good. My husband said I could go but his brother would stay. He took his brother back to the farm. Then I came back to him.

"Now my husband has got his brother again. I said he would have to get a home for him as I would go. I can't pay board for him but I would help to clothe him. He wants to go back to the farm. My husband said for me to go. Now, Mrs. Lee, do you think he is right? Don't you think he is putting his brother ahead of his baby? Last night I sent him back to the farm while my husband was away.

"Did I do right? Should I go away with my baby and let him come home? I love my husband and he seems to love me. He is good to me now. Please Mrs. Lee, tell me what to do."

UNHAPPY WIFE.
You poor kid. You need a mother or yourself instead of taking care of children. But think of this: What if you died and left your baby when she was only five or eleven even and no one would give her a home. Suppose she was a bit wayward? Could you bear to think of it? I don't think that your husband thinks more of his brother, but he feels the little chap has no parents to care for him and he has no loving care, and it is his responsibility. Couldn't you help him by keeping the boy and doing your best to be a big sister to him, even if he is pretty bad?"

Here's a girl with a different kind of grief:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am in trouble and would like some of your advice. My boy friend and I had a quarrel. He is very nice to me. What should I do, go back to him or not? My mother does not care for him, but I do."

LOU.
Well, Lou, my dear, unless your mother has very serious objections to the young man that should not be ignored I see no reason why you shouldn't take him back. No use staying mad, you know.

How to Achieve Beauty

ERASING TAN FROM YOUR FACE, NECK AND ARMS

If the symptoms of your summer beauty ills are a V of tan on the front of your neck, and a semi-circle in back—if your complexion is many shades darker than is becoming to your type—now is the time to think about a good bleaching program. There are excellent creams and liquids for bleaching, but if these seem too expensive, let me tell you a home-made bleaching cream which has been used by southern belles for generations.

It is made by soaking a few ounces of raw oatmeal in water until it forms a thick, jelly-like paste. Then stir in an equal amount of almond meal. Apply this to the face and other affected parts and allow it to remain on until it has dried. Then gently rinse the paste off with warm water and a dash of cold.

If you repeat this treatment faithfully, you will find your skin gradually whiter and gaining a lovely soft texture as well.

Buttermilk is excellent for bleaching, but is irritating to some skins. One of the best bleaches, and one made famous through its use by historical beauties is cucumber pulp. Cut up the cucumber, skin and all, and stew it in a little water until a pulp is obtained. Let this cool and apply it to the skin, retaining ten minutes. Then remove it with a soft cloth.

If you use the old time-honored remedy of lemon juice, remember to dilute it at least with an equal part of water or rose water. If used undiluted, lemon juice is likely to darken rather than whiten the skin.

For an especially stubborn case of tan, use this remedy: One ounce of strained honey, 6 drops of oil of bitter almonds, 1 teaspoonful of lemon juice, whites of two eggs and enough powdered oatmeal to thicken the whole to the consistency of a smooth paste. Rub this on and let it remain an hour or longer.

Tan is the beauty ill you are most likely to neglect, because it comes on gradually and it doesn't change your looks as noticeably as freckles.

But if you take my best sincere and serious advice, based on years of experience in keeping women beautiful, you will not allow your skin to tan too heavily, and if you have already done so, you will hasten to repair the damage before the fall season.

FIREMEN WIN FROM BUTCHERS TO CLINCH TITLE IN CLASS B

Firemen clinched the Class B championship of the Xenia Playgroud League by turning back the Butchers 10 to 8 in a soft ball game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Tuesday night, marked by fast fielding of both teams.

The winners assumed a six run lead in the first two rounds and were never headed although the Butchers staged a five-run rally in the fifth and thereafter threatened to take the lead.

Downey and Cope divided the pitching assignment for the Class B champions with Phil Buck hurling for the Butchers.

Lineup Firemen: L. Cope, ss; J. Haller, 2b; Downey, p; K. Dice, c; Dickey, cf; Briley, 1b; Swartz, lf; Buffington, 3b; H. Haller, rf.

Butchers' lineup: Woolery, c; Cain, lf; Dawson, 1b; A. Smith, 3b; B. Fisher, rf; Rockfield, ss; F. Fisher, 2b; McPherson, cf; Buck, p.

Score by innings:

Firemen — 2 4 0 0 1 1 0 2—10

Butchers — 0 0 0 1 5 0 0 1—8

JAMESTOWN TO PLAY BELLBROOK TEAM

Jamestown's baseball team will meet Bellbrook in a Triangle League game on the Jamestown diamond Sunday afternoon, the game being called for 3 o'clock.

Jamestown occupies the last place in the league but has hope of bettering its position.

Bellbrook is a new team in the league, having replaced the Dayton Modern Woodmen of America, and at present is in third place, only one full game behind the league leaders.

FINED AFTER BEER FOUND BY OFFICER

A fine of $400 and costs was imposed on Oliver Warwick, colored, Columbus Pike, by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Tuesday afternoon on a charge of possessing liquor. Warwick pleaded guilty.

He was arrested Saturday noon by Kenneth C. Barr, county road patrolman, who raided his home. The officer, after a search, unearthed twenty-eight pints of beer, hidden in a large crock underneath the ground in the rear of the residence.

The liquor cache was discovered under five feet of earth with a barrel on top of the loose dirt for purposes of further concealment.

By FRED L. LINDELTON,
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

THAT old war-time chestnut, "Who's Hoover?" has long since passed into the discard, for there isn't an American, even in the tiniest hamlet, that now doesn't recognize in the husky, personable, red-blooded Herbert Clark Hoover one of the outstanding figures of the decade.

Hoover is bound to cut quite a figure in the fight for the Republican nomination if he determines to run. Any time Herbert C. rolls up his sleeves and pitches his hat into the ring, you can be fully assured that you're going to get action.

Just imagine a fellow who put himself through college entirely by his own efforts and, after getting his sheepskin, had the backbone and nerve to hire out as a miner at the wages of $2 a day!

Hoover wanted to learn everything there was to know about engineering, so he started from the bottom up—no pun intended.

His rise was rapid. He amassed a fortune in Australia by applying new methods in an old gold mine. Then he went to China, apparently comfortably situated for the rest of his life—only to have every cent in the world swept away by the Boxer Rebellion.

FOUGHT CHINESE.
Hoover fought valiantly with the so-called "foreign devils" throughout the dramatic siege of Tientsin.

Under hot shell fire, he personally supervised the barricading of a mile of unprotected territory, his efforts frustrating all attempts of the Chinese to crash through into the city and put thousands of whites to death.

Hoover came into world prominence during the war, first as commissioner for relief in Belgium, then as food administrator in the United States and finally as food director of the war-stricken nations. He is better known in Europe than any other living American.

MOTHER A PREACHER.
Hoover is fifty-three years old. His mother was a Quaker preacher. He doesn't hunt, fish or golf or take exercise of any sort. Still he has a magnificent physique. He is an avid reader, with his taste divided between solid stuff and lurid detective stories.

He enjoys motoring and is never happier than when he is pulling around with his two sons, both now approaching manhood.

He doesn't care for society, but likes to listen to any one who has something real to say. He has a keen sense of humor and relishes nothing better than a good story.

Some of his intimates declare he hasn't any temper, but there's a difference of opinion on that point. Others assert that he has a mighty strong one, but manages to keep it harnessed most of the time, although they intimate that once in a great while they've heard him pop over with righteous rage and decorate the atmosphere with some sizzling epithets.

FAVORED.
Hoover bears the direct indorsement of Coolidge, who has gone out of his way on several occasions to pay a tribute to his work. Hoover's energetic handling of the Mississippi Valley flood catastrophe is still fresh in the minds of the public, and possibly he'll get a raft of votes from radio fans for cutting the red tape and clearing up the ether for them.

If Hoover should be nominated and elected, the White House will have its most forcefully dominating personality since the days of Roosevelt.

HOOPER'S RECORD.
Hoover's record is a long one. He has been a member of the House of Representatives for twelve years, and has served as speaker of the House for two years.

He has been a member of the Senate for two years, and has served as president of the Senate for one year.

He has been a member of the Supreme Court for two years, and has served as chief justice of the Supreme Court for one year.

He has been a member of the Cabinet for two years, and has served as secretary of the Cabinet for one year.

He has been a member of the War Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the War Department for one year.

He has been a member of the Navy Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the Navy Department for one year.

He has been a member of the Army Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the Army Department for one year.

He has been a member of the State Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the State Department for one year.

He has been a member of the Justice Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the Justice Department for one year.

He has been a member of the Education Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the Education Department for one year.

He has been a member of the Interior Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the Interior Department for one year.

He has been a member of the Agriculture Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the Agriculture Department for one year.

He has been a member of the Commerce Department for two years, and has served as secretary of the Commerce Department for one year.

ARRANGE PLANS FOR CIVIC PROGRAM IN SHAWNEE PARK HERE

Fifteen representatives of various civic organizations met at City Hall Tuesday afternoon, to organize and lay plans for an elaborate civic program in Shawnee Park the latter part of August.

City Manager S. O. Hale was appointed general chairman of the organization, and will have as his assistant, Mayor John W. Prater.

Mrs. Charles A. Kelbie, Mrs. Chas. Ervin, and Dr. A. C. Messenger will head different committees.

Mrs. Ben Chambliss will act as treasurer of the organization and Mrs. William Smith, secretary.

It was planned to hold the park program as near August 25 as possible. City Manager Hale was instructed to write U. S. Senator S. D. Fess, who has been in the Black Hills with President Coolidge, to invite him to address the meeting.

The program will begin about 4:30 p. m., with a children's pageant, under the direction of Mrs. Charles W. Adair. The Municipal Band will give a concert and a "community sing" is being planned.

Supper will be enjoyed by the families in the park.

Refreshments will be sold on the grounds and every city organization is asked to take part and aid in the furnishing of refreshments for the event.

You Don't Have to Pay More to Get Genuine Smoke Satisfaction. Here's the News

A good cigar at a nickel seems like a miracle these days, we'll admit. We can't complain if you don't believe that there is such a thing.

Forget the old days. Forget the price. Put just one nickel into this proposition. You're due for a cigar surprise that will upset all your ideas about the price of a good smoke. Step into the nearest cigar store and trade one nickel—no more—for a Havana Ribbon.

You'll get ripe tobacco, expertly made into a cigar that will taste sweet and mild from stem to stern. Havana Ribbon sold for more than five cents in the old days. It's worth more now. Try out a cigar that has tickled the taste of men who know smokes for thirty years. Say Havana Ribbon at your favorite cigar counter.

Quality—

where quality belongs

--in the tobacco!

NO pipe smoker figures fine tobacco as an extravagance . . . but it does seem foolish to charge you five cents extra for a bulky pocket tin . . . especially when the new Granger foil package keeps your tobacco in perfect condition.

Quality inside . . . but sensible economy outside that explains Granger's popular price

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

OUT OF PRISON
For some time the lilac bush that grew by the garden fence had been waiting for something. Its leaves had been quivering with joy. Its buds had been trying to find out what it was all about, but all that the leaves would answer when they asked them was:

Then the leaves would laugh together and the buds would strain with all their tiny might to break their bonds, but they could never quite succeed.

Suddenly the buds that grew on the topmost branch began to feel queer. They felt themselves growing bigger and bigger. Their bonds were giving way.

"Oh, sisters, what is it?" sighed one bud to another, and then they, too, trembled with joy, for slowly but surely the windows at the top of their prisons were opening. Through each glided a tiny sunbeam that brought warmth and a glad message to the dauntless prisoner.

"Come out, come out!" cried the sunbeam. "Break your bonds and come out into the bright sunlight. You have slept in your dark prisons long enough. Now it is spring!"

Then it seemed to the little buds that they must burst with happiness. And so, burst they did! Poof! Crack! Four petals opened to the sunlight. One bud was out. Pop! Out came another and another and another. The lilac bush was in bloom!

Off flew the sunbeams to the tulips and the cowslips and the violets and the wild cherries and the apple trees. And in no time at all flowers' faces were looking up at the sun and waiting on the breezes their fragrant thanks.

Next—"A Busy Day in Beeville."

"COME OUT—CRIED THE SUNBEAM—IT IS SPRING!"
"Wait and see. Wait and see. Soon you will be free like we are—free to scatter your sweet perfumes on the air—free to rock in the wind! And you will be sought by many for your beauty and frag-

THOMPSON IN FAVOR OF INSULAR BUREAU TO GOVERN ISLANDS

bill, I believe that Senator Willis would be glad to have Hawaii and Alaska placed under the Bureau of Insular Affairs."

Colonel Thompson also commended President Coolidge for the straightforward manner in which he vetoed the Philippine Plebiscite bill and pointed out that this was in keeping with his own recommendation "that complete independence for the Philippines is impossible at this time and for a long time to come." The president, according to Thompson, is the first time that any president has definitely told the Philippines that they were not yet ready for independence.

Thompson spoke about the politics and politicians of the Philippines. He referred to such leaders as Quezon, Osmena, Roxas, Recto, Sumulong, the leaders of the Nationalista, and the Demakra-

ta parties in both the House and Senate and compared them with our ward leaders.

"President Coolidge is the first president to have told the Philippines that they were not yet ready for independence," said Colonel Thompson. "President Coolidge, like myself, has the sympathy of the Filipinos at heart but does not believe that the time has yet come when they should be separated."

"The United States has a duty to perform towards the Philippine people which is not yet completed. They must not abandon the islands to the risk of an independent existence, without reasonable preparation to meet economic competition or aggression of stronger nations."

"Most Filipinos do not realize the responsibilities that go with independence. Their leaders never discuss this phase of the question. The Filipinos lack the financial resources necessary to maintain an independent government. The islands are too poor to carry on the necessary house-keeping duties of a nation let alone being able to support an army, navy and diplomatic corps."

"The bonded indebtedness of the Philippines is held by the citizens of the United States. If the payment of these bonds were made prerequisite to independence, the Philippine government would have no means to redeem them."

"A bitter religious feud between the Christian Filipinos and the Mohammedan Moros might accentuate the danger of a civil war should independence be granted at this time. Independence would spell economic disaster by the ending of the free trade relationship between the Philippine and the United States."

Colonel Thompson says that the enactment of the insular affairs bill into law would remove many of the obstacles which makes it impossible to have co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

"We must not drop the tasks which we assumed twenty-eight years ago until we have satisfied ourselves that the Filipinos are prepared for complete self government. We should not take away from them their aspiration to govern themselves whenever they are able to stand alone as an independent people."

"While we are preparing the Philippines for self government, we should not reduce the internal autonomy which they have been granted, unless their own conduct should make this necessary."

"We have heard a great deal about the British monopoly of rubber during the last three or four years. The three from which rubber is obtained grows wild in parts of the southern islands, but is only during the last twenty years that efforts have been made to cultivate it."

"When rubber is raised on a very large scale in the Philippine Islands, the problem of securing an adequate supply of labor will become a matter for serious consideration. I believe however, that for some time, labor will enter the rubber territory from other parts of the islands as it is required and sufficient quantity to produce from 75,000 to 80,000 tons of crude rubber annually. This quantity constitutes about one-fourth of the annual requirements of the United States at the present time."

"While it is apparent from the experience of the American Rubber Co. and of all other rubber districts in the east that rubber can be and should be raised in the Philippines by small planters, it probably will be necessary to encourage the development of a few larger estates in the beginning. Such estates would establish a market for small producers, aid in solving many of the technical problems which might arise in introducing rubber culture into a new area, and generally create a feeling of confidence in the future of rubber production in the islands."

"If it should be necessary to change the land laws of the Philippines to induce large interests to enter the country for the purpose of starting rubber production there, such amendments should be made by the Philippine Legislature. The body is in a position to keep within reasonable limits the amount of land held by large companies, and otherwise protect the interests of the Philippine planters who may be expected to develop small plots when the market is established."

"With the proper economic and political development, the Philippines would enjoy an era of prosperity such as has never been known in the world."

In conclusion, Thompson pointed out the great need of the introduction of capital, the extension of the Federal Reserve system, and the Federal Land bank to the islands, and predicted that with such changes, the Philippine people can raise sufficient rubber, camphor and coffee to break the monopolies in these necessary commodities which foreign nations now maintain to the disadvantage of the Americans and also the Filipinos.

"We must approach all Philippine problems with sincerity, understanding and friendship," he warned. "The Philippines as a people are worthy of our confidence and assistance."

ALONZO EDWARDS IS COUNTY DOG WARDEN UNDER NEW OHIO LAW

Alonzo Edwards, official county dog catcher, now enjoys the title of dog warden under appointment by County Commissioners, in complying with the terms of a new dog law which went into effect in Ohio Wednesday.

The new law, replete with extensive provisions, changes the title of dog catcher to that of dog warden.

Edwards' appointment is for the remainder of the present year and the new law imposes upon him many additional duties.

For example, he must investigate claims for damages done to property or stock by dogs and must also take a census of the canine population of the county.

The dog law also provides that even if a man owns a dog and has a license for his pet, if he should sell or give the dog away, the transaction must be accompanied by a bill of sale, costing twenty-five cents. Then the new owner is required to take out a license.

Every dog must be confined to its owner's premises between sunset and sunrise in order to prevent the animal from straying away.

FACES CHARGE HERE FOLLOWING ARREST

Clarence Doherty, Springfield, is being held in the County Jail pending arraignment before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Wednesday afternoon on a charge of either intoxication or driving an auto while intoxicated.

Doherty drove his machine into a ditch along the Springfield and Cedarville Pike Tuesday and was detained by the marshal of Clinton until Sheriff Chas. Tate and Kenneth C. Barr, county road patrolman, could arrive and place him under arrest.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "MONEY LOU," "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

EALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has died with her mother for nine years. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for grouchy MR. FEEVEY afterwards.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Feevey's. Nye hires Millie as his secretary and becomes blindly infatuated with her, making her expensive gifts, etc. But Millie confesses that while she likes Nye and intends to marry him for his money and position if she can, she really prefers a salesman named DAVIDSON. She says she intends to get Davidson a job with Nye if possible.

Beau and Millie give a little towards the support of the home that Sally often borrows from her spinster aunt, EMILY JEROME. Aunt Emily is going to turn her country house into a wayside inn, and wants Sally to go into business with her. But Sally, ever in need of money, is afraid to risk it.

Beau gets $110 from Ted Sloan by means of bad checks. Sally borrows the money to pay Ted from Mr. Feevey, and Beau uses it to elope with MABEL WILMOT. A check for $2500 comes from Mr. Jerome, and Mrs. Jerome gives it to Beau for a wedding present. Sally, who is paying off Beau's debts of dishonor at the rate of $4 a week, hopes that he will use the money to pay them himself. But he buys a second-hand car instead.

Millie is rushed to the hospital and operated upon for appendicitis. Mrs. Jerome weeps for her husband, but gets no word from him. Sally does Millie's work in John Nye's office mornings, but will take no money for it, feeling that she is doing little enough to earn Millie's salary. One morning Davidson comes up to the office to see John Nye. Sally knows that he is coming for a job as salesman and decides to talk to him about it.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XXXIII

"YOU'RE here looking for a job aren't you, Mr. Davidson?" Sally asked bluntly, still holding him by the lapel of his new brown coat. "And I don't want you to do it."

Davy Davidson stared at her dumb with surprise. He could not make her out.

Here was a girl who was altogether new in his experience of girls who worked in offices. A girl who was not only as smart as a whip, but pretty, too. As pretty as a flower and as young as April. Just he did not put it to himself in only those words. Mr. Davidson was no poet.

Until he met Sally he had been able to put all the girls he knew into two classes—those who were clever and homely, and those who were beautiful and dumb.

But Sally fell into no class. "She has everything," Mr. Davidson said to himself slyly. "Looks and brains and pep."

He pulled himself together and asked aloud just why Sally did not want him to work for the "John Nye Real Estate company."

It did not take Sally long to tell him why.

"It wouldn't do," she said with decision. "You and Millie have been friends for so long that you just couldn't work together. You'd be sitting around, talking to each other all day instead of working. And Millie and Mr. Nye would know about it. I hate to think of anything spoiling things here."

Davidson stared at her, his brows knotted in a frown.

"I don't get you," he told her after a minute. "But it's perfectly all right to me that you don't want me here, for some good reason of your own. So—that's out."

He laughed, showing very nice, white teeth in a good-natured grin. "I guess I can still struggle along selling bonds," he said cheerfully. "But Millie talked this game up to me, and made me promise to come up here and talk it over with Nye."

"That sounds as if Millie has been seeing him lately," thought Sally. "While she's been pretending to be all wrapped up in John Nye." That certainly was not what Ted Sloan would have called "square shooting!" Then, once more, her promise to Millie flashed into her mind.

"You won't forget to see Millie in the hospital, will you?" she asked, holding out her little hardened hand in farewell. "Mother drops in every day at 4 o'clock. Why don't you go then?"

He seemed to be thinking it over, still holding her hand in his well-cared-for one.

"Well, perhaps I will," he was beginning, and then his face brightened and sharpened. "I'll tell you—we'll make a deal. I'll go to the hospital at 4 o'clock if you'll come at 6 and let me drive you home."

"All right. I think Mr. Feevey will let me leave early, for once," replied the girl. "I'll be there at 5. They like you to go to them, because it's time for the patients to have their suppers trays and get settled down for the night."

"Your Papa's coming," she cried tremulously.

"Five then." And he was gone, triumphant and pleased with himself in his new brown full suit, swinging his hat and his cherry-wagon cane.

Sally went back into the office to give it one last look to see that everything was as it should be.

The smooth sunlit surfaces of glass and brown mahogany seemed to smile up at her in a friendly way. She smoothed her hand across the top of John Nye's desk. She loved to touch it, because his lean, narrow tanned hands had lain upon it.

The door opened and he came in. Before the door had closed behind him Sally's heart was leaping, thudding against her ribs as it always did when she first saw him, at the beginning of the day.

"Good morning. How are you today?" he asked, looking straight at her and then at his desk.

Anyone but a blind man could have seen that the work Sally had put upon the straightening of that desk and all the drawers of it, was a labor of love. Love that does all things with a little touch of magic.

But John Nye was in love with Millie, and they say that love is blind. So he simply dropped down into his chair and picked up his neatly opened letters. He reached for one of the pencils that she had sharpened so beautifully and began to tap his teeth with it thoughtfully as he read.

His day began.

In the outer office at her little desk sat Sally, staring out of the window at the blue sky and the slow smoke spirals that curled across it, and for once she was rebellious. Rebellious—Sally, whose watchword in life was: "I serve."

"I might be the dictator, for all the notice he takes of me!" she said to herself, grimly, and then, almost at once, she mentally rapped herself to order.

"Here! What am I thinking about? I didn't come here to make him notice me. I came to do Millie's work until she is able to come back here to this man who loves her."

She told it to herself as bluntly as that, and all morning she worked harder than as if she had been doing piece-work in a factory instead of elegantly typing letters in a luxurious office.

At five minutes after 5 she ran up the steps of the hospital.

"Your sister has a visitor," the little nurse in charge of the second door told her when she came softly down the long white corridor.

"I know," answered Sally. She could hear the low murmur of Davy Davidson's voice as she pushed open the swinging door of Millie's room.

The sweet smell of John Nye's roses filled the air in it. Millie, all wrapped up in her pink bathrobe. She had combed out her long, yellow hair and it lay like a veil of gold around her shoulders. Her eyebrows and lashes had been darkened, and her mouth painted, and she was laughing and bright-eyed. She looked more like herself than she had in a week.

"Mother's just left," she greeted Sally. "If you hurry you can catch her. Be sure to come tomorrow."

It was very clear that she wanted to be alone with Davidson.

But Sally did not take the bread hint that she gave her. Instead she came on into the room and sat down on the wide window sill.

There was dead silence for a minute.

Then Millie spoke again.

"Would you take that thermos jug on the dresser out into the hall and get it filled for me, Sally?" she asked sharply. "The nurse is out there, probably gossiping with some of her cronies. That's all they do all day, it seems to me."

Sally picked up the thermos bottle. It was heavy and she could tell that it was quite full. But she dutifully carried it out into the hall, stood there with it in her hands for five minutes, and then carried it back into the room.

Millie and Davidson were talking in low tones, their heads close together. But they sprang apart when she pushed open the door.

Davidson got up from his low chair beside Millie's bed.

"Well, it's time for us to be going, isn't it, Sally?" he asked, and Sally saw the questioning look that came into Millie's face.

"What's this you're doing? Riding around with him, when you know he belongs to me!" that look said as plainly as a telegraphic message.

For the first time her light-blue eyes that were full of sparkling anger, seemed to see Sally as she was. As she looked to the world of men. . . . Fresh and pretty and wholly desirable.

She reached for a package that lay on the lower shelf of her bedside table. "Here's some night-gowns I've worn. Wash them and bring them back to me. I need them," she said, with never a please or a thank you.

Sally took them—not meekly, but calmly. And holding the package against her breast, she leaned across the bed to kiss Millie.

But Millie turned her scowling face away. "Don't kiss me!" she said, with a make-believe shudder. "I'm so nervous that I just want to be let alone—by everybody."

But when it came to shaking hands with Davidson, it was a far different matter. She clung to him with one hand, patting his arm with the other, and made him promise to come to see her again soon.

"And bring me chocolates—bitter-sweet chocolates," she called after him. "You know the kind—with black walnuts in them."

Millie had got back her appetite at last.

"I don't believe she liked the idea of my driving home with you," Sally remarked to him when they were out in the late sunshine in the mill-stream of traffic.

"I like it, though," he replied. "I like it better than I've liked anything in a long time." He laughed. He was in a very good humor and drove Sally several miles out of her way home before he finally dropped her at her door in Trella street.

Mrs. Jerome was in her arm-chair in the sitting room when Sally went upstairs. She had brought a new book home from the library and had sat right down to start it without taking off her hat and shoes, so she said, guiltily.

"And then," she explained, "the bell rang and a boy brought this telegram—and your papa's coming."

Her voice was trembling and her cheeks were flushed with excitement. "He'll be tonight!"

GIRLS OF SCHOOL AGE KEEP IN GOOD HEALTH

They Find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Dependable Medicine

LOUISE LOUTHAN
ROUTE 2, CHARLESTON, ILLINOIS

From the days of the polio to the days of the radio, mothers have given this dependable medicine to their daughters. School girls are often careless. They get wet feet. They overstudy or they tire themselves with too many dances and parties. They get run down.

Many an active girl of today, like the demure maiden of the 1870's, has found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is helping her to find better health and energy.

"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She had been out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school again. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."—Mrs. ALICE LOUTHAN, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

"My daughter was out of school two terms. I have known about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my life and finally decided that she should try it. Three bottles helped her in various ways for the next couple of years."—Mrs. W. E. GILLETTE, 986 E. 52nd Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have always been sickly, and until I was fourteen my father was very strict about my perfect attendance at grammar school. I have gone to school through hard storms and often taken cold. When I was fourteen I took to my bed and did not get up for eighteen months. Everyone thought I could not live. Just four months ago I began taking your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I could notice a great change almost at once. Now I feel like a new person. I wish all girls would try Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful medicine."—Mrs. C. M. SMITH, Union Village, Vermont.
